ad legem, or in legibus, &c. And in that ancient Treatise of the Mirror of Iustices, vbi supra. Counteurs are described to be Serjants skilfull in Law of the Realme, which serue the common people to pronounce and defend their actions in iudgement for their fee, whose dutie is there excellently described. This proueth the great antiquitie of the Serjants at Law, inter placita de Parliament' tent' apud Ashering' an. 19. E. 1 in that great case of Thomas de Weylond, it is said, Seruientes in legibus & consuetudinibus Angliæ experti, &c. And in all our bookes of yeares and termes from the beginning there is mention made of them: as in 1. E. 3. 22. Serjant le Roy, &c. and in 1. E. 3. f. 16. there is mention made of an Apprentice: and he is called an * Apprentice of the Law of this word (apprendre) for that he ought to bee apprise in la ley, well learned in the Law, and hath manifested the same by open reading vpon some statute in that Inne of Court whereof he is fellow, and is next in degree vnder a Serjant. b ☞ the Sixe Clerks in Chancerie (next in degree to the 12. Masters) are Clerks of ancient continuance, vnto whom belongeth the enrolling of all Patents, Commissions, Licenses, Pardons, and other Warrants, that passe vnder the great Seale of England, whereupon they were called Clerici scribentes in Rotulis, as may appeare by certaine Constitutions made for the ordering of the Court of Chancery, about 12. of Ri: 2. Since which time the reputation of their places hath increased, in so much as they haue beene specially assigned among other officers to attend at the time of the Kings Coronation, as Heralds Records doe testifie. In the * yeare of K. Hen: the eighth, there was an Act of Parliament made to licence them to marrie, from which they had beene formerly restrained vnder the penaltie of forfeiture of their places. They are also Attorneys for plaintiffes and defendants in causes depending in the Court of Chancery, &c. — Sixe Clerkes. — * In times past the sixe Clerks might not marry

11133-2 ☞ Starre-chamber, Camera stellata, is a Chamber at the one end of Westminster Hall, so called, as Sir Thomas Smith coniectureth, lib. 2. cap. 4. either because it is so full of windowes, or because at the first all the roofe thereof was decked with Images of guilded starres. The latter reason is the likelier, because ¶ Anno 25. H. 8. cap. 1. It is written the sterred chamber. Now it hath the signe of a Starre ouer the doore, as you one way enter therein. In this Chamber, euery weeke twice, during the Terme time, and the very next day after Terme, is there a Court held by the Lord Chauncelor, or Keeper, and other honorable Personages of the Realme. This Court seemeth to haue beginning from the Statute 3. H. 7. cap. 1. whereby it is ordained that the Lord Chancelor and Treasurer of England, for the time being, and the Keeper of the Kings Priuie Seale, or two of them calling to them a Bishop, and a Temporall Lord of the Kings most Honorable Counsell, and the two Chiefe Iustices of the Kings Bench and Common Place, for the time being, or other two Iustices in their absence, should haue power to call before them, and punish such misdoers, as there be mentioned. The faults that they should punish be Routes, Riots, Forgeries, Maintenancies, Embraceries, Perjuries, and such other misdemeanor, as are not sufficiently prouided for by the Common Law. It appeareth both by Sir Thomas Smith, lib. 2. Rep. Ang: cap. 4. and by experience also, that at this day the whole number of the Princes most Honorable Priuie Counsell, and such other Barons Spirituall, or Temporall as be called thither by the Prince, haue place in this Court, with those aboue named of this Court, thus speaketh Master Gwin in the Preface of his Reading. It appeareth in our bookes of the Termes of King Edward the fourth, and of the report of cases happening vnder the vsurpation of Richard the third, that sometime the King and his Counsell, and sometime the Lord Chancelor, and other great Personages did vse to sit iudicially in the place then, and yet called the Starre Chamber. But for as much as belike that Assembly was not ordinarie. Therefore the next Kings, Henry the seuenth, and his sonne Henry the eight, took order by two seuerall laws, viz: 3. H. 7. c. 1. and 21. H. 8. c. 2. that the Chancelor assisted with others there named, should haue power to heare complaints against Retainours, Embracours, misdemeanours of officers, and such other offences, which through the power and countenance of such as doe commit them, doe lift vp the head aboue other faults: and for the which other inferiour Iudges are not so meete to giue correction. And because that place was before dedicated to the like seruice: it hath euer since accordingly been vsed, touching the Officers belonging to this Court Vide ¶ Camden.

11140-2 Statute (Statutum) hath diuers significations in our comen lawe: First yt signifeeth a decree or Act of Parlement, made by the Prince, and the 3. estates, which is the bodie of the whole Realme. And though yt borow the name from that kinde of decree, which those cities which were under the Romane Empire, made for the particular gouernement of themselues, ouer and aboue the vniuersall or comon lawe of the Empire: yet in nature it cometh neerest to that which the Romanes called legem, for that, as that was made by the whole people noble and ignoble: so this is ordained by those, that represent the whole number both of Prince and subiects, one and other, through the whole kingdome. The difference neuerthelesse was this, that Lex was offered to the consideration of the people by the Magistrate of the Senate, or Consull: But the Billes or suggestions wherehence our Statutes spring, are offered by any of either house; and so either passed or reiected. In this signification a Statute is either generall or speciall ¶. Coke. lib. 4. Holland. case fo. 76. a Statute in an other significtaion is for a bond, as Statute Marchant or Statute staple. ¶ Anno. 5. cap. 12. The reason of which name is, because theise bonds are made according to the forme of Statutes expresslie, particularie prouided for the same, which direct both before what persons, and in what manner they ought to be made. ¶ West: part: 1. Symb: lib. 2. Sect. 151. where he defineth a Statuto Marscannt thus: A Statute marscannt is a bond acknowledged before one of the Clerkes of the Statutes marscant, and mayor and cheife warden of the Citie of London, or two merscants of the said cittie for that purpose assigned, or before the Mayor, cheif warden, or Master of other Cities or good townes, or other sufficient men for that purpose appointed, sealed with the seale of the Debtor or Recognisor and of the King, which is of 2. peeces, the greater is kept by the said Mayor or cheif warden, &c. And the lesser peece therof by the said Clerkes. The forme of which bond you maye see in Fleta lib: 2. ca: 64. &c. thus: nouerint vniuersi me I. de tali Comitatu teneri N. in Centum libris soluendis eidem ad festum Sci: &c. Anno regni regis &c. & nisi fecero concedo quod currat super me et heredes meos districtio et pœna pro nisi in statuto Domini Regis edito apud westm. Dat: Lond: tali die Anno supradicto. The Fee for the same seale, is for Statutes knowledged in Faires; for euerie pound a halfpennye, and out of faires a farthing. The execution of Statute Marscant is first to take the bodie of the Debtor or Recogniser if he be not a Clerk, and can be found, if otherwise then vppon his lands and goods: The bond is founded vppon the Statute. ¶ Anno. 13. Ed. 1. Stat. 4. of this also as of the Statute staple see the new booke of Entries verbo Statute marshant and reade in Fleta vbi supra, more touching this matter worth the reading.

11133-2 ☞ Starre-chamber, Camera stellata, is a Chamber at the one end of Westminster Hall, so called, as Sir Thomas Smith coniectureth, lib. 2. cap. 4. either because it is so full of windowes, or because at the first all the roofe thereof was decked with Images of guilded starres. The latter reason is the likelier, because ¶ Anno 25. H.8. cap. 1. It is written the sterred chamber. Now it hath the signe of a Starre ouer the doore, as you one way enter therein. In this Chamber, euery weeke twice, during the Terme time, and the very next day after Terme, is there a Court held by the Lord Chauncelor, or Keeper, and other honorable Personages of the Realme. This Court seemeth to haue beginning from the Statute 3. H. 7. cap. 1. whereby it is ordained that the Lord Chancelor and Treasurer of England, for the time being, and the Keeper of the Kings Priuie Seale, or two of them calling to them a Bishop, and a Temporall Lord of the Kings most Honorable Counsell, and the two Chiefe Iustices of the Kings Bench and Common Place, for the time being, or other two Iustices in their absence, should haue power to call before them, and punish such misdoers, as there be mentioned. The faults that they should punish be Routes, Riots, Forgeries, Maintenancies, Embraceries, Perjuries, and such other misdemeanor, as are not sufficiently prouided for by the Common Law. It appeareth both by Sir Thomas Smith, lib. 2. Rep. Ang: cap. 4. and by experience also, that at this day the whole number of the Princes most Honorable Priuie Counsell, and such other Barons Spirituall, or Temporall as be called thither by the Prince, haue place in this Court, with those aboue named of this Court, thus speaketh Master Gwin in the Preface of his Reading. It appeareth in our bookes of the Termes of King Edward the fourth, and of the report of cases happening vnder the vsurpation of Richard the third, that sometime the King and his Counsell, and sometime the Lord Chancelor, and other great Personages did vse to sit iudicially in the place then, and yet called the Starre Chamber. But for as much as belike that Assembly was not ordinarie. Therefore the next Kings, Henry the seuenth, and his sonne Henry the eight, took order by two seuerall laws, viz: 3. H. 7. c. 1. and 21. H. 8. c. 2. that the Chancelor assisted with others there named, should haue power to heare complaints against Retainours, Embracours, misdemeanours of officers, and such other offences, which through the power and countenance of such as doe commit them, doe lift vp the head aboue other faults: and for the which other inferiour Iudges are not so meete to giue correction. And because that place was before dedicated to the like seruice: it hath euer since accordingly been vsed, touching the Officers belonging to this Court Vide ¶ Camden.

11140-2 Statute (Statutum) hath diuers significations in our comen lawe: First yt signifeeth a dertee or Act of Parlement, made by the Prince, and the 3. estates, which is the bodie of the whole Realme. And though yt borow the name from that kinde of decree, which those cities which were vnder the Romane Empire, made for the particular gouernement of themselues, ouer and aboue the vniuersall or comon lawe of the Empire: yet in nature it cometh neerest to that which the Romanes called legem, for that, as that was made by the whole people noble and ignoble: so this is ordained by those, that represent the whole number both of Prince and subiects, one and other, through the whole kingdome. The difference neuerthelesse was this, that Lex was offered to the consideration of the people by the Magistrate of the Senate, or Consull: But the Billes or suggestions wherehence our Statutes spring, are offered by any of either house; and so either passed or reiected. In this signification a Statute is either generall or speciall ¶. Coke. lib. 4. Holland. case fo. 76. a Statute in an other significtaion is for a bond, as Statute Marchant or Statute staple. ¶ Anno. 5. cap. 12. The reason of which name is, because theise bonds are made according to the forme of Statutes expressélie, particularie prouided for the same, which direct both before what persons, and in what manner they ought to be made. ¶ West: part: 1. Symb: lib. 2. Sect. 151. where he defineth a Statuto Marscannt thus: A Statute marscannt is a bond acknowledged before one of the Clerkes of the Statutes marscant, and mayor and cheife warden of the Citie of London, or two merscants of the said cittie for that purpose assigned, or before the Mayor, cheif warden, or Master of other Cities or good townes, or other sufficient men for that purpose appointed, sealed with the seale of the Debtor or Recognisor and of the King, which is of 2. peeces, the greater is kept by the said Mayor or cheif warden, &c. And the lesser peece therof by the said Clerkes. The forme of which bond you maye see in Fleta lib: 2. ca. 64 &c. thus: nouerint vniuersi me P. de tali Comitatu teneri N. in Centum libris soluendis eidem ad festum Sci: &c. Anno regni regis &c. & nisi fecero concedo quod currant super me et heredes meos districtio et pœna pro.nisi in statuto Domini Regis edito apud westm. Dat: Lond: tali die Anno supradicto. The Fee for the same seale, is for Statutes knowledged in Faires; for euerie pound a halfpennye, and out of faires a farthing. The execution of Statute Marscant is first to take the bodie of the Debtor or Recogniser if he be not a Clerk, and can be found, if otherwise then vppon his lands and goods: The bond is founded vppon the Statute. ¶ Anno. 13. Ed. 1. Stat. 4. of this also as of the Statute staple see the new booke of Entries verbo Statute marshant and reade in Fleta vbi supra, more touching this matter worth the reading.

11140-4 ☞ Statute Sessions otherwise called petit Sessions is a meeting in euery hundred of all the schires in England, where of custome they haue beene vsed: vnto the which the Constables doe repaire and others both housholders and seruants for the debating of differences betweene masters and their seruants, the rating of seruantes wages, and the bestowing of such people in seruice, as being fit to serue, either refuse to sure, or cannot get masters. ¶ An: 5. Eli: cap. 4. Vi. Recognizance.

11140-5 ☞ Statuto stapulae and statuto mercatorio are writs for the imprisoning of them that haue forfeited statute staples and statute marchant.

11140-6 ☞ Statutum delaboriis is a writ for the imprisoning of such laborers as refuse to work according to the statute. ¶ Regist. Indic. fol. 27. 6.

Then there is suite of court or suite seruice: that is, an Attendance which a tenant oweth at the court of the Lord. The new Expositor of the Law-termes maketh mention of foure sorts of suites, viz: Suit Couenant, Suite Custome, Suite Reall, and Suite Seruice. Suite Couenant hee defineth to bee, when your auncester hath couenanted with mine auncester to sue to the court of mine auncesters: Suite Custome, when I and mine auncesters haue beene seised of your owne suite and your auncesters, time out of minde, &c. Suite Reall, when men come to the Sheriffes Turne or Leete, to which court all men are compelled to come to know the lawes, so that they may not be ignorant of things declared there, how they ought to be gouerned, and it is called Reall, because of their alleageance, and this appeareth by common experience, when one is sworne: his oath is, that hee shall be a loyall subiect to the King. And this suite is not for the land that he holdeth within the Countie, but by reason of his person and his abode there, and ought to be done twice a yeare, for default hereof hee shall be amerced, and not distrained. Vid. Leete. Suite Seruice, is to sue to the Sheriffes Turne or Leet, or to the Lords court from three weekes to three weekes, by the whole yeare, and for default thereof a man shall be distrained, and not amerced. And this Suite Seruice is by reason of the Tenure of a mans land. Moreouer, Suite signifieth the following of one in chase, as Fresh Suite. Lastly, it signifieth a Petition made to the Prince, or great Personage.

The manner of assessing euery mans lands or goods is this: First there issueth a Commission out of the Chauncerie to some men of honour or worship in euery Countie, by vertue whereof to call vnto them the Head Constables or Bailiefes of euery Hundred, and by them the Constable and three or foure of the substantiallest housholders in euery towne within their Hundred at a day certaine: which men so called, or so many of them as the Commissioners thinke good to vse, doe rate the inhabitants of their owne towne, in such reasonable manner as they finde meete, yet by the discretion of the said Commissioners. And then euery man after his value set downe, must at his time pay to the Collectours appointed, after the rate aforesaid. Of these you may see varietie in Rastals Abridgement, Tit. Taxes, Tenths, Fifteenes, Subsidies, &c. whence you may gather, there is no certaine rate, but euen as the two houses shall thinke good to conclude. 11300-3 ☞ Suite, Secta, commeth of the French Suite, i. following, and so it is taken in our Common Law, but in diuers senses, the first is a suite in law. and is diuided into suite reall and personall, which is all one with Action reall and personall. Then there is suite of court or suite seruice: that is, an Attendance which a tenant oweth at the court of the Lord. The new Expositor of the Law-termes maketh mention of foure sorts of suites, viz: Suit Couenant, Suite Custome, Suite Reall, and Suite Seruice. Suite Couenant hee defineth to bee, when your auncester hath couenanted with mine auncester to sue to the court of mine auncesters: Suite Custome, when I and mine auncesters haue beene seised of your owne suite and your auncesters, time out of minde, &c. Suite Reall, when men come to the Sheriffes Turne or Leete, to which court all men are compelled to come to know the lawes, so that they may not be ignorant of things declared there, how they ought to be gouerned, and it is called Reall, because of their alleageance, and this appeareth by common experience, when one is sworne: his oath is, that hee shall be a loyall subiect to the King. And this suite is not for the land that he holdeth within the Countie, but by reason of his person and his abode there, and ought to be done twice a yeare, for default hereof hee shall be amerced, and not distrained. Vid. Leete. Suite Seruice, is to sue to the Sheriffes Turne or Leet, or to the Lords court from three weekes to three weekes, by the whole yeare, and for default thereof a man shall be distrained, and not amerced. 12309-1 ☞ Wapentake, Wapentakium, is all one with that, which we call an hundred, as appeareth by ¶ Bracton: lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 1. num. 1. in fine. Conuocentur (saith hee) postmodum seruientes & Bailius Hundredorum, & per ordinem irrotulentur Hundredarij, siue Wapentakia, &c. Master Lamberd in his explication of Saxon wordes, verbo Centuria, is of the same minde: and farder saith that this word is especially vsed at this day in the Countries North by the River Trent, and in the Lawes of K. Edward, set forth by him, num: 33. it is most plaine in these wordes: Et quod Angli vocant Hundredum, supradicti Comitatus vocant Wapentakium: and in the same place he sheweth the reason of the denomination, in these words, When any came to take the Gouernement of the Hundred or Wapentake in a day and place appointed, as they were accustomed to meete, all the better sort met him with Lances, and he alighting from his horse all rise vp to him, And he setting or holding his Lance vpright, All the rest come with their Lances, and according to the auncient custome in confirming league and publike peace and obedience, and touch his Lance or Weapon, and thereof called Wapentake, for the Saxon or old English Wapun, is weapon, and tac, tactus a touching, thereby this meeting called wapentake or touching of weapon, because that by that signe and ceremonie of touching weapon or the lance, they were sworne and confederate. Thus farre the booke goeth for the word. Take Sir Thom: Smithes opinion also de Repub: Anglor: cap. 16. whose wordes be these, Wapentak, I suppose, came of the Danes, or peraduenture of the Saxons. For that so many Townes came by their order then in one place, where as taken a Muster of their Armour and Weapons. In which place, from them that could not finde sufficient suretie and pledges for their good abearing, their weapons were taken away. The Statute ¶ Anno 3. H. 5. cap. 2. & Anno 9. A Warren, as we vse it, is a Prescription or Graunt from the King to a man, of hauing Phesants, Partridges, Conies, and Hares, within certaine of his lands, ¶ Crompt: Iurisdict: fol. 148. where he saith, None can haue Warren but onely the King, no more then Forest or Chase, because it is a speciall Priuiledge belonging to the King alone. And a little after he hath words to this effect: The King may graunt Warren to me in mine owne lands, for Phesants and Partridges onely. And by this Graunt no man may there chase them without my licence. And so of Hares, but not of Conies. For their propertie is to destroy the fruits of the earth, and to eate Corne, and pill the barke of Apple trees. ¶ Manwood in his first part of Forest Lawes saith thus of it: A Warren is a Franchise, or a priuiledged place of pleasure, onely for those beasts and fowles, that are beasts and fowles of Warren, tantum campestres & non syluestres, viz. for such beasts and fowles as are altogether belonging to the Fields, and not to the Woods, and for none other beasts or fowles. There are two beasts of Warren, viz. Hares and Conies, and there are also but two fowles of Warren, viz. Phesants and Partridges: And none other wilde beasts or birds haue any firme peace, priuiledge, or protection within the Warren. 12362-3 ☞ Weights, Pondera. There bee two sorts in vse with vs. The one called * Troy weight, which contayneth twelue onzes in the pound, and no more, by which Pearle, Pretious stones, Electuaries and medicinable things, Gold, Siluer, Bread be waied: The other is called * Aver de pois, which contayneth sixteene onzes in the pound. By this all other things are waied that passe betweene man and man by weight, sauing only those aboue named; why it should bee called Troy weight, it may bee for that they terme it libram & vnciam Troianam, as if it came from Troy. But George Agricola in his learned Tractate de ponderibus & mensuris, pag. 339. termeth the pound of twelue onces, * Libram medicam, and the other sixteene ounzes, * Libram ciuilem, saith thus of them both, Medica & Ciuilis libra, numero, non grauitate vnciarum differunt. The second seemeth so to bee termed, by reason of the more full weight, for Avoir de pois, in French is as much to say as to haue full weight. All our weights and measures haue their first composition from the penny sterling, which ought to weigh two and thirtie wheat cornes of a middle sort, twenty of which pence make an onze, and 12. such ounzes a pound, or 60. shillings, but 15. onzes make the Marchants pound, ¶ Fleta: lib. 2. cap. 12. It is not vnlike that this Marchants pound, though an ounce lesse, should be all one in signification with the pound of avoir de pois, and the other pound called by Fleta Trone weight, plainely appeareth to bee all one with that we call Troy weight. See Tronage.

12502-2 ☞ Writ, Breue, is that with our Common Lawyers (in Sir Thomas Smith his iudgement, lib. 2. de Repub. Anglor. cap. 9.) which the Ciuilians call Actionem siue formulam. But Actio seemeth rather the parties whole suit, and Breue is the Kings Precept, whereby any thing is commanded to be done touching the suit of Action: as the Defendant to be summoned, a distresse to bee taken, a disseisin to be redressed, &c. And these Writs are diuersly diuided in diuers respects. Some in respect of their order, or manner of granting, are termed Originall, and some Iudiciall. Originall Writs be those that are sent out for the summoning of the Defendant in a personall, or a Tenent in a reall action, or other like purpose, before the suit beginneth, or to beginne the suit thereby. Those be Iudiciall, that be sent out by order of the Court where the cause dependeth, vpon occasion growing after suit begunne, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 51. And Iudiciall is thus by one signe knowen from the Originall, because the Teste beareth the name of the chiefe Iustice of that Court whence it commeth, where the Originall beareth in the Teste the name of the King. Then according to the nature of the action, they be Personall or Reall: and Reall be either touching the possession, called Writs of Entrie, or the propertie, called Writs of right, ¶ Fitz. nat. br. sparsim per totum. Some Writs be at the suit of a partie, some of Office, ¶ Old nat. br. fol. 147. Some ordinarie, some of priuiledge. A Writ of priuiledge is that which a priuiledged person bringeth to the Court for his exemption, by reason of some priuiledge. See Procedendo. See the New booke of Entries, verbo Priuiledge. Aduertiſements to the Readers for the better and ſooner vnderſtanding of this Spaniſh Dictionarie, as alſo of the Spaniſh Tongue.

You are to note, that the Spaniards in their common ſpeach and writings as alſo in their printed Bookes pronounce, write and print certaine letters one for another, as B for V conſonant, and V conſonant for B. as well in the beginning as in the middle of a word, as Bailár or Vailár to daunce, Bandéra or Vandéra a banner or enſigne, Bérça or Verça a Cabbage or a Colewort; Biúda or Viúda, a Widowe, wherefore if you finde not the word in B. looke in V. if not in V. looke in B. ſo likewiſe in the middle of a word, as Abéja or Auéja, a Bee; Cabállo or Cavállo, a horſe, &c.

B, and V. cõſonant pronounced and written one for another.

In the ſame manner ç and z, as çaguán and Açaguán, looke Zaguán, the porch of a doore, Açabáche, looke Azabáche Ieate, Azafrán, looke Açafrán, Saffron.

ç. and z. one for another.

G. and j. ſhota likewiſe written and pronounced one for another, as Mageſtád, Majeſtád, Maieſtie; and j ſhota for x, and x for j ſhota, as jabón, Xabón, ſope, Xaráve jarâve, ſirupe, &c.

G. and j. ſhota & j. with x.

Note alſo when you ſee a word diſioyned or ſeparated with a little line put betweene thus, des-Abahár, to reeke or vapour out, des-Canſár to reſt, des-Culpár, to free from blame; des-Elár, to thawe, des-Ventúra miſhap, &c. it ſignifieth that, that word is compounded, and that the compoſition is ſeparated from the ſimple word, by putting that little line betweene: Therefore the Reader were beſt to looke into their ſimple words, to ſee their proper ſignification.

Words diſioyned with a little line thus --.

That you may finde out the roote of euery Irregular verbe (which moſt oft you ſhall meete in reading) I haue thorow the whole Dictionary declined all the hard and Irregular Verbes, in their Moodes, and Tenſes, and Perſons, where they differ from the common declining; as for example, Cabér Præſ: Quépo, Cábes, Cábe, i. Prat: Cúpe, cupíſte, cúpo, Fut: Cabré, cabrás, cabrá, Sub: Præſ: Quépa Imperf: Cupiéra, cabría, cupiéſſe, Fut: Cupiére; now when you meete with Quépa in reading, looke in Q. and you ſhall finde Quépa, vide Cabér; ſo Tenér Præſ: Tengo, tiénes, tiéne. i. Prat: Túve, Tuvíſte, Túvo, Fut: Tendré, drás, drá, or Terné, nás, ná, Sub: Præſ: Ténga, Imperf: Tuviére, tendría, Tuviéſſe, Fut: Tuviére, looke in Tu, you ſhall ſee Túve, Tuvíſte, Túvo, vide, ſee Tenér, and ſo of all the reſt of the irregular Verbes, which how much it doth helpe the vnderſtanding of this Tongue, I leaue to your owne opinion hereof.

Of the irregular verbes.

Further, I haue accented all, or the moſt part of Spaniſh words thorow this whole Dictionary, that you may pronounce them as the Spaniards themſelues doe, as amór, not ámor; Caridád, not Cáridad, charitie. The Accent alſo makes one and the ſelſe ſame word of diuers ſignifications, as Házia towards, Hazía, I or hee did make; ésta, ſhee or this thing; eſtá, hee or it ſtands; éſte, hee or this; eſté, let him or it ſtand; Plática, ſpeach; Platíca, hee doth reaſon or talke; ámo, a maſter; amó he hath loued.
