SECVNDA EPISTOLA LECTORI.

The Second Epistle to the Reader.

IN the search of Tongues (in which these many yeares I haue spent my time and substance) I haue alwayes found that the true knowledge and the sure holding of them in our memories, consisted, in the knowing of them, by their Causes, Originalls, and Etymologies, that is, their reasons and deriuations, which is the scope I ayme at in this my Worke Etymologicall, deriued from the Greeke ἔτυμος true, and λόγος speach, as Orthographie is said of ὀρθὸς right, and γραφὴ writing. In my Latine Epistle to the Reader I haue alleaged sundry Authors, of high learning, both ancient and moderne, which haue written whole bookes of this Subiect, and a great number more could I here produce, out of all I haue gathered, as much as I could in manie yeeres search, and haue as well as I could, applied it to my Countreyes vse; by laying the languages so together that are of one sound, (which I may terme a harmony of Tongues) for that thou mayest with little or no labour, well learne, and fast hold in thy memorie, these languages so layd together: wherefore, for thy better vnderstanding, I giue thee this further instruction, as an Introduction to the same, and say, that many languages differ one from another, but by these figures, * Prothesis, Aphæresis, Epenthesis, Syncope, Paragóge, Apócope, Metáthesis, &c. which I expound in English thus; Prothesis, a putting to of a letter or syllable, to the beginning of a word; Aphæresis, a taking away of a letter or syllable from the beginning of a word; Epenthesis, a putting betweene of a letter or syllable, in the middle of a word; Syncope, a taking away, or cutting of a letter or syllable from the middle of a word; Paragoge, a putting to a letter or syllable to the end of a word; Apócope, the taking away, or cutting of a letter or syllable, from the end of a word; Metáthesis, a transposition when one letter is put for another or in anothers place. All which figures, you may see better expounded from the Greeke, in this Dictionarie in their proper places, which figures vsed thorow the whole course of this worke, almost in euery word, you may well finde, before you come to the Etymologie of the words, all which being so helpefull to true vnderstanding and memorie, that it might be a sufficient motiue, to men that haue meanes, and desire knowledge, to giue themselues to the vnderstanding of the Tongues from their Originals, the Keyes to vnlocke the Doores, into the Treasurie of all Learning, Diuine and humane: For if we doe but looke in the Etymologies but of the very names of men in the holy Scripture, we shall see, what light they giue, euen to the vnderstanding of the story, and do but marke the Hebrew wordes beginning in * אב Ab, to signifie a father, בן Ben, a sonne or building, * באר Beer a well, or wilderneſſe, * בית Beth a house, and multitudes of others, in other syllables, of other significations, thorow the whole course of the Bible, deriued not onely from the Hebrew, Chaldie, and Syriack, but also from the Greeke, and Latine, and so to consider the middle and end of words, what they signifie by Etymologizing and deri-

*The Authours acknowledgement.

* And at this time, to publish to the world, of the helpes that of late I haue had in England, of Honourable, and other worthy persons, some by gifts, others by lending great summes to lift vp this worke to the eye of the World for the generall good, lying languishing for want of Printing, which now being done so much by their good meanes, I doe here to the world first professe my hearty thankefulnesse to the Almighty God, that hath of his goodnesse thus farre enabled my weake bodie and meanes, in so great a worke, and next, due remembrance vnto men, that by their meanes, it is thus published in Print: And if the Bookes now Printed, may be at a reasonable rate sould and vented, I may be incouraged, and others who are ingaged about this Worke, in great summes, may be the sooner satisfied and payed. And if any bee profited or pleasured hereby, if they will next vnder GOD, acknowledge with me thankefulnesse vnto those, that haue been great meanes to bring it to this passe, I shall bee the more comforted, that they doe Sympathize with mee, in my true affection, and due respect towards them therefore.

And whereas I may incurre offence, or suspicion of flattery, to set downe the names of some worthy persons in this Kingdome, who haue much fauoured and furthered this Worke, and without whom I could finde no other meanes at that time, to bring it to this passe: For that their worths are such, that euery day as occasion is offered (being in so great places) they may, and doe performe greater matters in the Common-wealth: For these and some other respects, I doe forbeare the here naming of them.

And whereas some sixe yeeres since, when I had done this Volume Etymologicall of eleuen Languages as copious as I could for the Presse, being then in Oxford, and hauing my Copie, and company of certaine Strangers and Schollers at mine owne charge about the Worke there, I made suit vnto the Vniuersitie to haue the Testimony of my paines, and expence, and their approbation of this Worke, which vnder the Seale of the Vniuersitie, with the hands of the Right Worshipfull Mr. Vicechancellour, and the rest of the heads of houses there, they then freely gaue mee (to my first comfort, after my so long and chargeable labours herein:) And for that then I found, I had spent all my substance thereupon, and gotten greatly into debt thereby, I laboured for His Maiesties Letters Patents, which by the meanes of certaine Right honourable Personages, by shewing some part of the Worke, I obtained his Maiesties gracious Graunt herein. For which, and other furtherances for setting this Worke forward, I remaine to their Honours much obliged and bound: which Letters Patents, with my Copie, I tendred to the Company of Stationers to be sould, who by reason of my great debts to be paid thereby, refused the same. Whereby I was forced to proiect how I might get it Printed, and thought, if it might be hearkened vnto, that Multorum manibus grande leuetur opus. I first preferred Petition to the Honourable and Right Worshipfull Benchers and Gentlemen, of the honourable Societies of Graies Inne, and Lincolnes Inne, by whose goodnesse and Contributions it was first set on Printing: After them followed diuers Honorable and Right Worshipfull Personages, Bishops and others, which I forbeare to name, for former respects, and returne to the first setters in Print of this Worke, the honourable Societies of the Innes of Court, with my proceedings by Petition to the honourable Societie of the Inner Temple, with like successe, and here likewise publish my due respect and thankefulnesse to them, for furthering this worke, as the former Innes of Court before had done. And whereas before I came to that Inne of Court, and since it hath beene said to me, that I should neuer be able to raise such summes to the Printing of so great a Worke, but that which they then did, they thought well of in respect of my endeauours, and therefore did the lesse, because they had no hope, that euer it should be brought to passe (as a thing indeede in these times very hard for that Haud facilè emergunt quorum virtutibus obstat res angusta domi) yet now by Gods blessing, and their goodnesse to set it first on, I haue by that meanes wrought my selfe in credite againe to borrow great summes thereupon, to make an end thereof, to present it to your viewes as you see, (though it hath cost me the hazard of my life therefore.) And I doe here protest, that I neuer had intent to trouble any man with Contribution, if the Worke and my selfe had not beene in these desperate termes; wherefore as soone as I could, I freed the Worke and my selfe from that imputation, and little respect (of a thing neuer so good in such needie courses.) Yet if a man duely consider, or rather be driuen to proue, they shall finde, that Necessitie makes men Artists, that neuer meant to be skilled, and Cowards to fight, that durst not otherwise draw weapon, and if honour or profite be also proposed, greater spurres cannot be set to a man that hath spirit euen to performe actions that are seeming beyond his power.

I had a minde to haue made suit in like manner to the Middle-Temple, as to the other Innes of Court, but as soone as I could get credite, to borrow money to accomplish the Worke, Worke, I did forbeare them, and all others in that kinde; yet one I must acknowledge of that house, whose purse hath payd to the setting forward of this, as of diuers other good workes (if I be silent, dayly his good deeds doe speake the same) who wel knowes a great part of my expence, and paines hereabouts, and also at diuers times, like an honourable Gentleman hath done me about this Worke, sundry former fauours.

And that you may now see I meant not to prosecute these courses of Contribution, when that I could borrow elsewhere, I will here set downe that a Gentleman of worth and vnderstanding, Sir Iohn Lawrence Knight, (who not only was one of the first and most bountifullest Benefactors to raise this Worke vp, but also seeing it sticke for want of summes to set it forward, lending and laying downe further out of his purse, a great summe, and ioyning with the Right Worshipfull Mr. Doctor Aisworth of Great Milton, Mr. Paul Peart; and Mr. Henry Brigges, they did at their charge, Print off the rest, and greatest part of the maine Booke of eleuen Languages here done; and a Right Worshipfull and most learned Gentleman, Sir Henry Spelman Knight, and a worthy Citizen Master Richard Booth, and againe the aboue-named Mr. Henry Brigges; (all which had formerly likewise furthered the first worke) did lend and lay downe so much money more, to the Compiling and Printing of this new Spanish Dictionary, in Spanish, Latine and English, and sometimes other Languages, with some certaine thousands of words, and their Etymologies, added to my former Spanish Dictionarie, to these Gentlemen, for their helpes and moneys, I do here publish my thankfulnes to them therefore, and vnto one Mr. Robert Treswell Esquire, Surueyor of His Maiesties Woods, and Mr. William Caldwell Esquire, both which in the former, and later, haue engaged themselues in good summes for the sooner and better bringing them to passe. I do likewise heere acknowledge the name, and continued good turnes and fauors to set this Worke forward, of Mr. Thomas Warricke Esquire, and Mr. Iohn Porie, a little before he went to trauell out of England. And whereas I made an end of the Dictionary Etymologicall of eleuen Languages in Oxford, and began and made an end of the Spanish in Cambridge; and much the sooner by the fauourable goodnesse of the Right Worshipfull Vicechancellours and the rest of the heads of houses of both Vniuersities, to animate some Schollers to set to their helping hands, for which their forwardnesse to set foorth this Worke, I doe heere publish my humble thankefulnesse to them all, and especially to some of them, to whom I remaine more particularly bound, whose names I here forbeare, for priuate respects. And I doe heartily wish, that all those that are pleasured hereby, might acknowledge with mee thankefulnesse to those, by whose good meanes it is thus brought to passe, and would likewise wish (though not likely to obtaine) Readers, without gaule or bitternesse, ready to excuse, slow to condemne, full of charitable spirit, voide of their owne vaines and opinions: and I doe promise what faults I haue herein committed, being thereof admonished, I will doe my best to make amends, for as yet I cannot winne out time, to reade ouer the Worke, to finde out the Errata: And as for the contenting of some conceited, that make sleight account of making of a Dictionary, I striue not, but appeale to those that haue laboured in this kind, who best by their owne triall, can iudge hereof; and for others I esteeme not their accompt, till they haue made like triall, yet doe in all things submit my selfe, and doings, to the censure of the wiser sort, discreete and learned. If this Epistle or the former seeme to thee too tedious, vnderstand that I meant not to set a little Gate to so great a Building, and so I leaue this Worke, and my selfe, hard to please few, harder to please many, impossible to please all.

IOHN MINSHEU.

The true Copy of the bands, with the Seale of the Vniuersitie of Oxford, in confirmation and approbation of this Worke.

WHereas some Eleuen yeeres since, Mr. IOHN MINSHEV, Professor of Languages in LONDON, to his great paynes and coſt, and his due praise and commendation, as to the publike good, Published in Print the Spanish Dictionarie Spanish and English; and è conuerso, English and Spanish, with a Spanish Grammar, and seuen Spanish Dialogues, adioyning to the same; and then began a Dictionarie in fiue Languages, which euer since, to his excessiue charge, labour and paynes (hauing no other Liuing for Himselfe, Wife, and Children, but his Teaching of Languages) he hath increased to the number of Eleuen Languages; viz. English, Britith or Welsh, Low Dutch (and sometimes Saxon) high Dutch, French, Italian, Spanish, Portugall, Latin, Greeke, and Hebrew, sometime the Chaldye and Arabick Tongues, with the Etymologies and Reasons of all Wordes in all these Languages, as much as many Scholers (some English-men, some Welsh, some high Dutch-men, low Dutch, French, some Italians, &c. all learned in the Tongues) for diuers yeeres could find out, by reading the best Authors in all these Languages, the like whereof as yet neuer Published in Print, and all at his great charges and expences, towards the valew of a thousand Markes or thereabouts, as by the number of yeeres, and persons imployed in this Worke, and by his Papers written thereof may be coniectured.

And hauing now finished and ended the Alphabet, the foure and twentie Letters, in all these Languages, as he thinketh, and by the iudgement of the Learned seemeth, will be a sufficient ample Dictionarie Etymologicall: For the compleating, examining, reuiewing, and correcting whereof; he came downe from LONDON, with his Company of Strangers and Scholers to this our Vniuersitie of OXFORD; and to his, ioyned other Strangers and Scholers, for the more perfect reuiew and ouer-sight, for the space of these foure moneths amongst Vs, to his farther great expences, and appointed euery one in his owne Language (and that he had most skill in) to runne ouer, that it now might goe the more correct to the Presse: the particulars of some Wordes, drawne out of the Mayne (which remayneth here as yet in OXFORD amongst vs) he carryeth with him, to shew to whom shall be desirous of the same, as also this our TESTIMONIALL of Him, as the worth of the worke deserues; That it is in our Opinions, A rare and excellent Worke in this kinde, pleasant and profitable, and now correct in all these Tongues, and very Worthy to be Printed and Published throughout Christendome, for the Benefit and helpe of Learning in all these Tongues, for the Credit of our Nation, and the Speciall aduancement of our English Tongue amongst other Nations. And that it were great pitty, that he (after his excessiue charges; labour, and so long time spent thereupon) should be any way preiudiced, and not fauoured & furthered by men of Worth, as He, for his great Industrie, paines, and expences, for the aduancement of Learning in the Tongues, most worthily deserues. Thus much we thought good (in testimonie of the Truth) in Christian dutie, to set our Hands and Seale of our Vniuersitie, the two and twentieth of Nouember, one thousand sixe hundred and ten.

WEe whose names are vnder written (according to our Iudgements, vpon sight) doe testifie, that a Dictionarie Etymologicall of Eleuen Languages (viz.) 1 English, 2 British, or Welsh, 3 High Dutch, 4 Low Dutch, 5 French, 6 Italian, 7 Spanish, 8 Portugall, 9 Latine, 10 Greeke, and 11 Hebrue, with the Etymologies, that is, the Reasons and Derivations of all wordes in all these Eleuen Languages. Which (M. IOHN MINSHEV, Professor of Languages in London, and Maker of the Spanish Dictionarie, now extant vnder his Name, at his excessiue charges, by maintayning many Scholars, and naturall Strangers, all Learned in the Tongues for diuers yeeres, besides his owne trauaile, and paynes therein) hath Bestowed his time and whole Stock vpon, to the value of a thousand Markes, or thereabouts, Is a rare and worthy Worke, as Neuer yet any the like published in Print, as also a Methode most helpfull to Memory, making a man with much Ease and Facility to Remember 4, 5, or more Languages together, differing from all Dictionaries heretofore set forth, that vnder the Name, the Nature, propertie, qualitie, matter, forme, fashion or end of things are directly described, as himselfe by conference with the Learned, and shewing the worke to whomsoeuer, shall plainely demonstrate and proue.

All which, the said IOHN MINSHEV with his great Industrie, paynes, and exceeding expences, for the Aduancement of Learning, in the Tongues, hath now brought to passe. For Testimonie of the Truth hereof, we haue set to our hands in Confirmation of the worke, most Worthy to be Fauoured, and furthered by All men of Worth, as it most duely deserues, 8. of December, 1610.

betwixt Baile and Mainprise. For (saith hee) hee that is mainprised, is alwaies said to be at large, and goe at his owne libertie, out of ward, after hee is let to mainprise, vntill the day of his appearance. But it is otherwise where a man is let to Baile, by 4. or 2. men, or by the L. Chiefe Iustice in Eyre of the Forest vntill a certaine day. For he is alwaies accounted by the Law, to bee in their ward and custodie for the time they vndertooke for him. And they may, if they will, keepe him in ward or prison, all that time, so that he that is so bailed, shall not be said, by the Law, to bee at large, or at his owne libertie. Or Baile may be said of the suretie which is baillé, i. giuen or deliuered vp as a pledge to answer. so is the suretie said to be Baile for another man, Baillé, i. giuen or deliuered vp, that if the Principall appeare not at the day appointed, the Baile is to answer the Action or matter. Baile is called in Latine Manucáptio. Vide Mainprise.

753 ☞ to Baile, or become suretie for one, à Gal: bail, i. tradítio, i. a deliuering. Vi. Baile. Nam qui aliquem vadátur, illum q. in suam potestatem tradit, aut seipsum in alterius. It commeth from the French word Bail, which signifieth a deliuerie: because whosoeuer baileth any man, deliuereth him out, or himselfe into the power of another, by binding himselfe to answer if the other faile. 754 ☞ Bailement (a terme in Law) is a deliuerie of things, whether it bee of writings, goods, or stuffe, à Gal: Baillemént, i. idem, a deliuering or giuing.

755 ☞ a Bailie, Báili-fe or Báilye. G. Bailli, Baillif. Flan: Hol: Zelan: Baeliu, Baelliu, Bailliu, Drossaet, Drossaert. I. Báilo. H. Báylio, Alguazil, apud Gallos, with the Frenchmen, Baillí ou Baillif. Est Lat: Diocétes. Gr. διοικητής, i. administrátor, vel negotijs administrandis præfectus, à διοικέω, i. administro, à διὰ & οἶκος, i. domus, vt sit q. qui administrat seu órdinat domum, sed translatè ad multa alia officia extenditur. Nomárcha, νομάρχης, q. præfectura imperium obtinens, à νόμος, i. lex, à νέμω, i. distribuo, & ἀρχός, i. dux, præfectus. Præfectus Prouinciæ, vulgò Baliuus, a Góuernor, a Maior, a Bailiefe, A Magistrate appointed within a Prouince or Precinct, to execute Iustice, as a Iustice of Peace, to maintaine the Peace, and preserue the people from wrong, oppression, and vexation. He hath authoritie and power to enquire and take notice of Félonies, Tréasons, Murders, Pópular Assemblies, Faires, Markets, Freedomes, or other Priuileges vsurped, or vniustly stood on. He makes Proclamation in his owne name, and appoints the Ordinarie Musters in his Próuince. At Assises hee is Principall Iudge, yet but a Deputie to the King, or some Lord, whereof euery one may haue a Bailie within his territorie and Iurisdiction, so that there be Baillifs royaux, Baillies Royall, which in ancient time were but 4. but now are many in number, Baillifz de Prouínces, or Grands Baillifz, Bailiefes of Prouinces, which are of Dukes, Marquesses, and Earles, who besides other prerogatiues, haue the deciding of great and priuileged cases, to make difference from other Bailiefes of other places. For as there be 16. Párlements in France, ¶ Lupan: de Magistrat: Francorum lib: 2. cap. Parlaméntum, which be high Courts, whence lieth no appeale, within the Precincts of which, there be seuerall Prouinces, vnto which within themselues, Iustice is ministred by certaine Officers called Baillifz, as in England the chiefe Magistrates of diuers Townes Córporate bee called Bailiefes, who haue the same authoritie in their Iurisdiction as the Bailiefes in France. And as our Realme of England is diuided into Counties, or Shires, so is euery Countie diuided into Hundreds, within the which, in ancient time, the Kings Subiects had Iustice ministred vnto them by the seuerall Officers of euery Hundred, which were called Bailiefes. And a Bailiefe, as Bracton writeth, lib 3. Tract. 2. cap. 34. num. 5. might hold Plea of Appeale and Approuers. But sithence that time, these Hundred Courts (certaine Franchises excepted) are by Statute An. 14. Ed. 3. Stat. 1. ca. 9. brought into Countie Courts. In which in former time, Iustice hath beene ministred to the Inhabitants of each Countie, by the Vicount, which we call Shyreeue, the one name descending from the Normans, the other from the Saxons, as Reeue of the Shyre, which word Reeue in the Saxon signifieth also a Bailiefe. Whereby it is próbable that in ancient time the Bailiefes did administer Iustice to the Inhabitants of the whole Countie, because the Countie is called many times Balliua, i. a Bailiwicke, as Kitch: Retur: Breu: fo: 258. Non est inuentus in Balliua, &c. But our word Bailie, G. Baillif, commeth of the French word Baillie, i. Puissánce, Mandemént, Authorité, Ang: Power, Gouernment, Seigneurie, rule ouer, Command. as, Ie ne veux éstre en ta Baillíe. ¶ Berin: I will not be vnder thy Seigneurie or gouernment. And Lettres de Baillie (according to the stile of Normandie) are Letters or Writs authorising him to whom they are directed vnto, to take into his possession the goods or possessions of another. Which may come of Baillér, i. to giue or grant, viz. Authoritie from the King, &c. And in some parts of France, as in Languedoc, they call Báile, as in Italian Bália, i. a woman Nurse, by the same reason. For as the Bailie hath his power giuen him, and hath his gouernment in his Bailliage, i. his Bailiwicke, so hath a Nurse ouer her nurse childe. In England there be Bailiefes errants, and Bailiefes of Franchisez, which in our Law or vulgar Latine are called (Balliui itinerántes) i. going hither and thither in the Countie to serue Writs, and summon the Countie Sessions, Assises, and such like, &c. which are made and appointed by the Shiriefe. (Balliui Franchesiarum aut Libertátum) are those that bee appointed by euery Lord within his libertie, to doe such Offices within his Precincts, as the Bailiefe errant doth at large within the Countie. There bee also Bailiefes of the Forest. ¶ Manwood part: 1. pag: 113. With vs in England there bee Bailiefes of Husbandrie, belonging to a Mannor, or to priuate men of much lands and substance, who seeme to be so called for the reason aboue written, for that they dispose of the vnder seruants, euery man to his labour and taske, checke them for misdoing their businesse, gather the profits of their Lord and Master, and deliuer vp an account. This also among the Saxons was called a Reeue, for the word Bailiefe came in with the Normans, and Rebuffus in constitut: regias de senten: executionis, art: 7. glos: 1. writeth, that it commeth from the Heb: בעל baal, i. dóminus, a master, because Bailiefes command and beare rule in stead of their Masters. The Latine word is Villicus.

b ☞ * Capias ad satisfaciendum, is a Writ of execution, after Iudgement, lying where a man recouereth, in an Action personall, as debt or dammages, or detinewe in the Kings Court: and hee against whom the debt is recouered and hath no Lands nor Tenements, nor sufficient goods, whereof the debt may be leuied: For in this case, hee that recouereth, shall haue his Writ to the Sheriefe, Commanding him, that hee take the body of him, against whom the debt is recouered; and hee shall be put in Prison, vntill satisfaction be made vnto him that recouered.
c ☞ Cápias pro fine, is where one being by Iudgement fined vnto the King, vppon some offence committed against a Statute, doth not discharge it according to the Iudgement: for by this is his body taken, and Committed to prison, vntill hee content the King for his fine, ¶ Coke lib. 3. cap. 12. 2. d ☞ Capias vtlagatum, is a word of execution, or after Iudgement, which lieth against him which is out-lawed vpon any suite: by the which the Sheriefe, vpon the receit thereof, apprehendeth the Party out-lawed, for not appearing vpon the Exigent, and keepeth him in safe custody vntill the day of the returne assigned in the Writ; and then presenteth him vnto the Court, there further to be ordered for his Contempt.
e ☞ Capias vtlagatum & inquiras de Bonis & Catallis, is a Writ all one with the former next before, but that it giueth a farther power, to the Shereife ouer and beside the apprehension of the body, to enquire of his goods and Cattels.

1980 ☞ Cinque ports. G. Cinque ports. I. Cinque porti. H. Cinco-puertos. T. Fünff ports, oder hafens. B. Fiue Hauens. L. Quinque portus. Gr. λιμένες πέντε. Ang: Fiue Ports or Hauens, be those speciall Hauen townes which lie toward France, in the East part of England, which in respect of their situation, anciently required a more vigilant care than other Hauens, being in greater danger of inuasion by our enemies, by reason that the Sea is narrower there than in other places. M[r]. Camden in his Britannia, pag. 230. saith, that the Romans, after they had setled themselues and their Empire heere in England, appointed a Magistrate or Gouernour ouer those East parts, whom they termed Comitem líttoris Saxónici, per Britanniam, hauing another that did beare the same title, on the opposite part of the Sea, whose office was to strengthen the Sea-coasts with munition, against the outrages and robberies of the [1] Barbarians: but more especially (as my Author saith) against the inuasion of the Saxons, which at that time did much waste and spoile the Countrey in those parts: as of latter yeeres, viz. in the latter time of Queene Elizabeth, the Dunkerks of the Low Countries did many times endammage the Country adioining to the Sea side very much, by running on shoare with their Longboats in the night, and killing, yea and often stealing away much cattell from about Folkestone, Hyde, and Dymchurch, and other places on the Sea-coasts. Of which places and Ports to this day is there an especiall Gouernour or Keeper, called by his Office, Lord Warden of the Cinque-ports, hauing the authoritie, and all that iurisdiction that the Lord Admirall of England hath in places not exempt, and sending out Writs in his owne name. And further I finde on record in the Rolles, that Henry the Seuenth respecting the dignitie of this Office, thought it not vnworthie the person of a Prince, but bestowed it vpon his second sonne Henry the eighth, who succeeded him in name and Kingdome. The words of the Record are these expresly. [2] Henr. 7. Rex Angliæ, &c. quinto die Aprilis, Anno regni sui octauo, secundo-genito filio suo Henrico, dedit officium Constabular: Castri Douer, ac custodiam quinq; Portuum. Which Ports at this day are knowen by the names of Hastings, Doucr, Hith, Rumney, Sandwich. [3] The inhabitants of these Ports, and of their limmes or members, enioy diuers and great priuileges aboue the rest of the Commons of that Countrey. They pay no subsidies: besides, suits at Law are commenced and answered within their owne Townes and liberties: their Mayors haue the credit of carrying the Canopie ouer the King or Queene at their coronation. And for their greater dignitie, they are placed then at a Table on the right hand of the King. Crompton in his Iurisdictions fol: 28. nameth the Cinque ports to be seuen, adding Rye and Winchelsey to the fiue before recited. To which that old verse yeelds further testimonie: Douer, Sanduicus, Ryc, Rumney, [4] Frigmareventus. But neither that of Cromptons, nor this more ancient authoritie in verse, are to be receiued. For Rye and Winchilsea are indeed limmes, or members, belonging to the Port of Hastings, as likewise Lid and old Rumney are limmes of the Port of new Rumney, and not distinct Ports by themselues. Quære Statutum Henr. 8. anno 32. cap: 48. in hunc finem. M. Camden, the most learned Antiquarie of our time, pag. 230. is of opinion, that this office of a Warden had his first originall amongst vs, after the incursion and inuasion of the Romans, in imitation of the Romane policie, because they had ordained the like Officers likewise vpon the other side of the Sea, and more in number. Into this Office of heedfull and high trust, anno primo Iacobi Angliæ, was called and chosen the anciently high borne, learned, and true noble Lord [5] Henry Earle of Northampton, Lord Priuie Seale, and Priuie Counsellour of Estate vnto his Maiestie. Gr. λιμενάρχης, à λιμὴν, i. portus, & ἄρχων, i. Dux, Princeps, Præfectus. Vnde etiam Lat: vocatur Limenarcha. ¶ Aristot: sexto Polit: tales custodes vocat λιμενοφύλακας, à gr. λιμὴν, i. portus, & φύλαξ, i. custos, vt dicatur portuum custos. Vulgò Guardianus, siue custos quinque portuum. G. Gardién des cinque ports. I. Guardiáno, ò Amiráglio de i cinque porti. H. Guardian, o Guardadór de los cinco puertos. P. o Porteyro mor. T. Meister der fünff meerhafens, Eyn fürgesetzter dess meers. B. Wardeyn, Bewaerder, ofte Meester van de vijue hauens.

[1] The Hebrewes, Greeks, and Romans accounted all that were strangers to them, either by nation or tongue, Barbarians or barbarous people, although they were not borne in Barbarie.

[2] HENRY the 8. Lord Warden of the Cinque-ports in the life time of his Father HENRY the 7. King of England.

[3] First granted in the time of K. Edward, called the Confessor, before the Conquest: since increased chiefly in the daies of 3. Edwards, the 1. 2. and 3. since the Conquest, as appeareth in the booke of Domesday, and other old Monuments, heere too long to recite.

[4] WINCHILSEA, à frigore, mari, & vento, because the winds lying sharpe vpon that coast and there, make both Sea and Land as it were chill for cold, quasi, Wind, Chill, Sea, which is so extreme piercing aire and cold, that few of the very Inhabitants, especially the men, doe liue long, but are driuen into sharpe agues, and other dangerous diseases, so that seldome any stranger will bee any way induced to dwell amongst them. The like aire is in other townes on the sea coast, in diuers Countries in England, and elsewhere.

Vi. Extreats, vel potiùs Estreats.

e ☞ Clarke of Assise, Clericus Assisæ, is he that writeth all things iudicially done by the Iustices of Assises, in their Circuits. Crompt: Iurisd: fo: 227.

f ☞ Clarke of the Pell, Clericus Pellis, is a Clarke belonging to the Exchequer, whose Office is to enter euery tellers bill into a parchment Rolle, called Pellis receptorum, i. the skinne or Rolle of Receits, and also to make another Rolle of paiments, which is called Pellis exitum, wherein hee sets downe by what warrant the money was paid, and thereof called Pel, or Pell, of the Lat: Pellis, a skinne.

g ☞ Clarke of the Warrants, Clericus Warrantorum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Pleas, which entreth all Warrants of Atturney for Plaintiffe and Defendant, and enrolleth all deeds of Indenture of bargaine and sale, which are acknowledged in the Court, or before any Iudges out of the Court. And he doth extreat into the Exchequer all Issues, Fines, and Amercements, which grow due to the King any way in that Court: and hath a standing Fee of 10. li. of the King for making the said extreats. Vi. Fitz: Nat: br: fo: 76.

h ☞ Clarke of the Petit Bagge, Clericus paruæ Bagiæ, is an Officer in the Chauncerie, of which sort there be three, and the Master of the Rolles is their chiefe. Their Office is to record the Returne of all Inquisitions out of euery shire, all Liueries granted in the Court of Wards, all ouster les mains, to make all Patents of Customers, Gawgers, Controllers, and Aulnegers, all conge d'eslires for Bishops, all Liberateis vpon extent of Statute Staples, the recouerie of Recognizances forfeited, and all Elegits vpon them, the summons of the Nobilitie, Clergie, and Burgesses of the Parlament, Commissions directed to Knights, and other of euery Shire, for seassing of the Subsidies, Writs for the nomination of Collectors, and all trauerses vpon any office, bill or otherwise, and to receiue the money due to the King for the same. This Officer is mentioned Anno 33. H. 8. cap. 22. and it is like had first this denomination and stile of Petie Bagges, because hauing to doe with so many Records of diuers kindes as aboue mentioned, they were put in sundrie leather bagges, which were not so great as the Clerke of the Hamper now vseth, and therefore might bee called Petits Bagges, small or little bags. Vi. Clarke of the Hamper.

i ☞ Clarke of the Kings great Wardrobe, Clericus magnæ Garderobæ Regis, is an Officer of the Kings house, that keepeth an account or Inuentarie in writing, of all things belonging to the Kings Wardrobe. This Officer is mentioned Anno 1. Ed: 4. ca: 1.

k ☞ Clarke or Comptroller of a Market, Cléricus mercatus siue fori, called according to the Greeke name, G. Agoranóme. I. H. P. Agoranómo. L. Agoranómus. Gr. ἀγορανόμ@, ab ἀγορὰ, i. forum, the market place, & νέμω, i. administro, rego, to gouerne or order. It is an Officer in the Kings house, mentioned Anno 1. Ed: 4. ca: 1. & Anno 13. R. 2. ca: 4. whose dutie is to take charge of the Kings measures, and to keepe the Standards of them (that is) the Examples or Patternes of all the Measures that ought to be thorow the Land: as of Elnes, Elles, Yards, Lagens, as Quarts, Pottles, Gallons, &c. of Weights, Bushels, and such like, and to see that all measures in euery place be answerable to the said Standard or Patterne. Fleta lib: 2. ca: 8. 9. 10. 11. 12. of which Office, as also of our diuersitie of weights and measures, you may there finde a Treatise worth the reading. Britton also in his 30. Chapter saith in the Kings person to this effect: Wee will that none haue measures in the Realme but Wee our selues, but that euery man take his measure and weights from our Standards: And so goeth on with a Tractate of this matter, that well sheweth the ancient Law and practise in this point. Touching this Officers dutie, you haue also a good Statute Anno 13. R. 2. ca: 4.

l ☞ Clarke of the Kings Siluer, Clericus Argenti Regis, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Pleas, vnto whom euery fine is brought, after it hath beene with the Custos Breuium, and by whom the effect of the Writ of Couenant is entered into a paper Booke; and according to that note, all the Fines of that Terme are also recorded in the Rolles of the Court. And his entrie is in this forme: He putteth the shire ouer the margen, and then saith, B. C. dat Domino Regi dimidiam merkam (or more according to the value) pro licentia concordandi D. cum D. E. pro talibus terris, in tali villa, & habet Chirographum per pacem admissum, &c.

m ☞ Clarke of the Peace, Cléricus Pacis, is an Officer belonging to the Sessions of the peace. His dutie is in the Sessions to reade the Indictments, to enroll the Acts, and draw the processe, to record the Proclamations of rates for seruants wages, to enroll the discharge of Apprentices, to keepe the Counterpaine of the Indenture of Armour, to keepe the Register Booke of Licences giuen to Badgers and Laders of corne, and of those that are licensed to shoot in guns, and to certifie in to the Kings Bench transcripts of Indictments, Outlawries, Attainders, and Conuictions, had before the Iustices of peace within the time limited by Statute. ¶ Lamb: Eirenarchia lib: 4. ca: 3. fo: 379.

n ☞ Clarke of the Signet, Cléricus Signetti, is an Officer continually attendant on his Maiesties Secretarie, who alwaies hath the custodie of the priuie Signet, as well for sealing his Maiesties priuate Letters, as also such grants as passe his Maiesties hands by Bill assigned. Of these there be foure that attend in the course, and were vsed to haue their diet at the Secretaries table. More largely you may reade of their Office in the Statute made Anno 27. H. 8. ca: 11.

o ☞ Clarke of the Priuie Seale, Cléricus Priuáti Sigílli, is an Officer (whereof there be foure in number) that attendeth the Lord Keeper of the Priuy Seale, or if there be none such, vpon the Principall Secretarie, writing and making out all things that be sent by warrant from the Signet to the Priuy Seale, and are to be passed to the Great Seale, as also to make out (as they are termed) Priuie Seales, vpon any especiall occasion of his Maiesties affaires, for loane or lending of money or such like. Of this Officer and his function, you may reade the Statute Anno 27. H. 8. ca: 11.

p ☞ Clarke of the Iuries, or Iurata Writs, Cléricus Iuratórum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Pleas, which maketh out the Writs called Habeas Corpora, and Distringas for appearance of the Iurie, either in Court or at the Assises, after that the Iurie or panell is returned vpon the Venire facias. He entreth also into the Rolles the awarding of these Writs, and maketh all the continuance from the going out of the Habeas Corpora, vntill the verdict be giuen.

q ☞ Clarke of the Pipe, Cléricus Pipæ, is an Officer in the Kings Exchequer, who hauing all accounts and debts due vnto the King, deliuered and drawne downe out of the Remembrancers Offices, chargeth them downe into the great Roll: who also writeth summons to the Shyreeue to leuie the said debts, vpon the goods and chattels of the said debtors: and if they haue no goods, then doth he draw them downe to the Lord Treasurers Remembrancer, to write Extreats against their Land. The Ancient Reuenew of the Crowne remaineth in charge before him, and hee seeth the same answered by the Fermers and Shyreeues to the King. Hee maketh a charge to all Shyreeues of their summons of the Pipe and Greenewax, and seeth it answered vpon their accounts. He hath the ingrossing of all leasses of the Kings Lands: and it is likely that it was at the first called and still hath denomination of Pipe, and Clarke of the Pipe, and Pipe Office, because their Records that are registred in their smallest Rolles, are altogether like Organe Pipes: but their great Roll, called the Great Roll Anno 37. Ed: 3. ca: 4. is of another forme.

r ☞ Clarke of the Hamper or Hánaper, Clericus Hanaperij, is an Officer in Chauncerie Anno 2. Ed: 4. ca: 1. otherwise called Warden of the Hamper in the same Statute, whose function is to receiue all the money due to the Kings Maiestie for the seales of Charters, Patents, Commissions and Writs, as also [...] due to the Officers for enrolling and examining the same, with such like. [...] tied to attendance on the Lo: Chancelour or Lo: Keeper daily in the Terme time, and at all times of sealing, hauing with him leather bagges, wherein are put all Charters, &c. after they be sealed by the Lo: Chancelour, and those bagges being sealed vp, with the Lo: Chancelours priuate seale, are deliuered to the Comptroller of the Hamper, or Hánaper. Whereas now the Clarke hath with him leather bagges to put in the Charters, it is likely in old times they were Hampers or Baskets, and thereof called Clarke of the Hamper, or Hanaper. This Hanaper representeth a shadow of that which the Romanes termed Fiscum, that contained the Emperours treasure. Vi. Hamper, Hanaper.

ſ ☞ Clarke of the Plees, Clericus Placitorum, is an Officer in the Exchequer, in whose Office all the Officers of that Court (vpon especiall priuilege belonging vnto them) ought to sue or to be sued vpon any Action, and thereof called Plees, and Common Plees, because places whereupon Actions in Law are impleaded and sued. Vi. Plea.

t ☞ Clarke of the Treasurie, Clericus Thesaurariæ, is an Officer belonging to the Common Plees, who hath the charge of keeping the Records of that Court, and maketh out all Records of Nisi prius, hath the Fees due for all searches, and hath the certifying of all Records in the Kings Bench, when a Writ of errour is brought, and maketh out all Writs of Supersideas de non molestando, which are granted for the Defendants, while the Writ of errour hangeth. Also hee maketh all exemplifications of Records being in the Treasurie. He is taken to be seruant to the Chiefe Iustice, but remooueable at his pleasure, whereas all other Officers are for terme of life. There is also a Secondarie or Vnder-clarke of the Treasurie for assistance, which hath some allowances. There is likewise an Vnder-keeper, who alwaies keepeth one key of the Treasurie doore, and the chiefe Clarke of the Secondarie another: so the one cannot come in without the other. Vi. Treasurer, Treasorer.

v ☞ Clarke of the Essoines, Clericus Essoniorum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Plees, who only keepeth the Essoines Roll, and hath for entring euery Essoine vj. d. and for euery exception to barre the Essoine vj. d. Hee hath also the prouiding of Parchment, and cutting it into Rolles, and marking the numbers vpon them, and the deliuerie out of all the Rolles to euery Officer, and the receiuing of them againe when they be written, and the binding and making vp of the whole bundles of euery Terme. And this he doth as seruant to the Chiefe Iustice: For the Chiefe Iustice is at charge for all the parchment of all the Rolles. The word Essoines commeth of the French Essoine, Exoine, m. i. an essoine, or excuse, or toleration for absence vpon a lawfull cause alleged vpon oath, fortè à Lat: exoneratus, exempted. Vi. Essoine.

w ☞ Clarke of the Outlaries, Clericus Vtlagiariarum, is an Officer belonging to the Court of Common Plees. being onely the seruant or deputie to the Kings Atturney Generall, for making out the Writs of Capias vtlagatum after outlawrie. And the Kings Atturnies name is to euery one of these Writs. And whereas vij. d. is paid for the Seale of euery other Writ, there is but a pennie paid for the Seale of this Writ, because it goeth out at the Kings suit. Vi. Outlawerie.

x ☞ Clarke of the Sewers, Clericus Sueratum, is an Officer pertaining to the Commissioners of Sewers, writing all things they doe by vertue of their Commission. For the which see the Statute Anno 13. Eliz: ca: 9. And Vi. Sewers.

y ☞ Clarke Comptroller of the Kings house (whereof there be two) is an Officer in Court, that hath place and seat in the Compting-house, and authoritie to allow or disallow the charges and demands of Poursuiuants and Messengers of the Greenecloth, Pourveyors, or other like. He hath also the ouersight and comptrolling of all defaults, defects and miscarriages of any inferiour Officers, and to sit in the Compting house with the superiour Officers, viz: the Lo: Steward, the Treasorer, Comptroller, and Cofferer, Masters of the Houshold, and Clarkes of the Greenecloth, either for correcting or bettering things out of order: and also for bringing in countrie prouision requisite for the Kings Houshold, and the censure for failing of carriages and Carts warned and charged for that purpose. This Office you haue mentioned Anno 33. H. 8. ca: 12. Vi. Controller, & Greenecloth.

z ☞ Clarke of the Nihils, Clericus Nihilorum, is an Officer in the Exchequer, that maketh a Roll of all such summes as are Nihiled by the Shireeues vpon their extreats of Greene wax, and deliuereth the same into the Lo: Treasurers Remembrancer his Office, to haue execution done vpon it for the King. Vi. Nihil.

bb ☞ Clarke of the Checke, is an Officer in Court so called because he hath the checke and comptrolement of the Yeomen of the Guard, and all other ordinarie Yeoman Huissiers belonging either to his Maiestie, the Queene, or the Prince, either giuing leaue or allowing their absences or defects in attendance, or diminishing their wages for the same. He also nightly by himselfe or deputie taketh the view of those that are to watch in the Court, and hath the setting of the watch: This Officer is mentioned Anno 33. H. 8. cap: 12.

cc ☞ Clark Marshall of the Kings house, seemeth to be an officer that attendeth the Marshall in his Court, and recordeth all his proceedings mentioned Anno 33. H. 8. cap: 12. Vi. sub voce Marethall.

d ☞ Combat in our Common Law is taken for a formall triall of a doubtfull cause or quarrell by the sword or bastons, of two Champions. Of this you may reade at large, Paris de Puteo de re militari & duello. Alciat: de duello. Hotoman: disput: feudalium, cap: 42. As also in our Common Lawyers of England, namely Glanuile li. 14. c. 1. Bracton lib: 3. tractat: 2. cap: 3. Britton cap: 22. Horns Mirrour of Iustices, lib: 3. cap: des exceptions in fine proximè ante C. Iuramentum duelli apud Dier: fol: 301. nu: 41. 42. ¶ Staunf: Plees of the Crowne, lib: 2. fo: 176. b. and 177. a. saith that it is an ancient triall in our Law, and much vsed in times past, as appeareth by diuers Presidents in the times of Edward the Third, and Henry the Fourth: which is not yet out of vse, but may be by the Law in vse at this day, if the Defendant will, and nothing can be drawen in Conter-plee thereto. And it is said M. 37. H. 6. f. 3. that to wage Battle, or to Combat, is by the Ciuill Law: but Moile saith it is by our Common Law, and as Stanford plees of the Crowne, fo: 177. a. saith, * That they shall come armed into the Court, and ioine issue: the Plaintiefe beginnes his appeale, &c. and the Defendant pleads not guiltie, and (as Britton setteth it downe, fo: 41.) vndertakes to defend it with his bodie, &c. And after, one taketh another by the hand, and first the Defendant saith in this manner: Heare you this, you man whom I hold by the hand, which are called Iohn by your Christian name, that I Pierce, such a yeere, such a day, in such a place, the aforesaid murder of N. neither did doe, nor goe about, neither purpose, nor assented to such a Felonie, as you haue alleged. So God me helpe, and his Saints. And after the Accuser saith: Heare you this you man whom I hold by the hand, which are called P. by your Christian name, you are periured: For on such a day, such a yeere, in such a place, you did such treason or such a murder, which I haue alleged against you, or whereof I challenge you. So God mee helpe, and his Saints. Then they shall be both lead into a certaine place, where both further say, Heare you this, Iustices, that we I. and P. haue neither eat nor drunke, nor done any other deed whereby the Law of God should be abased, or the Law of the Diuell aduanced. And foorthwith there shall be an Oyez or Proclamation made, that none shall bee so bold but the Combatants, to speake or doe any thing that shall disturbe the Combat or Battle: and whosoeuer shall doe against this Proclamation, shall suffer imprisonment for a yeere and a day. Then they shall fight with weapons, but not with any iron, but with two staues or bastons tipt with horne, of an ell long, both of equall length, and each of them a Target, and with no other weapon may they enter the lists. And if the Defendant can defend himselfe till after Sunnes-set, and as my Author saith, till you may see the starres in the firmament, and demand iudgement if he ought to fight any longer, then must there be iudgement given on the Defendants side. And Bracton agreeth heerewith in these words: Quòd si Appellatus se defenderit contra appellantem, tota die, vsque ad horam qua stellæ incipiunt apparére, tunc recedat Appellatus, quietus de appello, ex quo Appellans se obligauit ad conuincendum eum, vna hora diei, quod quidem non fecit. When the Defendant doth plead to the appeale not guilty, and vndertakes to defend it with his bodie, he must throw downe his gauntlet or gloue into the Court; and if the Plaintiefe doth enter Reioinder to the Battle, then must hee take vp the gloue or gauntlet; but if the Plaintiefe doth conterplead vnto it, then must hee suffer the gloue or gauntlet to lie, and the other shall demurre in Law or void him of the Appeale, because he refused his gloue or gauntlet. When they are sworne, they must produce Mainprisers or pledges to performe the Combat or Battle, and then the Court shall appoint them a day and place to fight, and as Fitz: p. 385 further saith, that the Challenger shall be at libertie, but the Defendant in the custodie of the Marshall, and the Marshall shall array them both at their owne charge, and that must be the night before the Battle, for that they may be ready in the field or lists by Sunne rising. The formes of Battle described 17. Edw: 3. & 9. H. 4. differ from that described by Bracton and Britton, and that described by Dier, Termino Trinitatis, Anno 13. Eliz: as hee sets it downe betweene one Cheuin and another Paramour a Kentish Gentleman, about the triall of Land, and leuying a fine thereof: and on the issue Paramour chose the Triall by Combat or Battle, and had a Champion one George Thorne a Gentleman of Kent, and no doubt his dearest friend, that would enter the lists to such a hazard of life, &c. And the other had one Henrie Nailer a Master of Fence, and the Court awarded the Battle, and the Champions were mainprised and sworne (Quære formam Iuramenti) to performe the Combat or Battle, apud Totehill in Westm: 18. Iunij, prox: post crast: Trinitat: which was the first day of the Vtas of the Terme, and on the day appointed was there a List made foure-square on euen ground, euery square 60. foot, and East, West, North, and South: and the place and seat of the Iudges was made without, yet close vpon the Lists, and a Barre made for the Sergeants at Law, & circa horam decimam eiusdem diei, three Iustices or Iudges of the Common Pleas, viz: Dier, Weston, Harper, (the fourth, namely Welsh, was away by reason he was sicke) did repaire to the place in their Roabes of Scarlet, with their other Habits and Coifes, and the Sergeants at Law also: and there a Proclamation being made with three Oyez, the Demandants were first called for, and they came not. After that, the Mainpernours of the Champions were called to bring foorth first the Champion of the Demandant or Challenger, which came into the place in Rugged Sandals, bare legged from the knee downward, and bare headed, and bare armes to the elbow, being brought in by the hand of a Knight, * Sir Ierome Bowes by name, who carried a Red Baston, of an ell long, tipped with horne, and a Yeoman carrying the Target, made of double leather, and they were brought in at the North side of the Lists, and went about the side of the Lists, vntill the middest of the Lists, and then came towards the Barre before the Iudges, with three solemne Congies, and there was hee made to stand at the South side of the place, being the right side of the Court. And after that, the other Champion was brought in, in like manner, at the South or contrary side of the Lists, with like Congies, &c. by the hands of * Sir Henry Cheney Knight, &c. and was set on the North side of the Barre (quite opposite to the other Champion) and two Sergeants being of counsell of each partie, in the middest betweene them: This done, the Demandant was solemnly called againe, and appeared not, but made default; vpon which default, Barham Sergeant for the Tenant, praieth the Court to record the Nonsuit; which was done: Then Dier Chiefe Iustice reciting the briefe, the matter, and issue of the Battle or Combat, and the oath of the Champions to performe it, and the prefixed day and place, giues finall iudgement against the Demandant, and that the Tenant shall hold the Land, to him and to his heires for euer quietly, from the said Demandant or Challenger, and their heires for euer, and the Demandants and their Pledges, de prosequendo, to be at the mercy of the Queene, &c. And then was there solemne Proclamation made, that the Champions and all others there present (which by estimation were about 4000. persons) should depart in Gods peace, and the Queenes. And so they departed with a shout, God saue the Queene. Likewise, according to the Lawes and ancient Customes of the Realme of England, 9. Iacobi Termino Hilarij, A Gentleman, by name Mr. Egerton, hauing challenged another Gentleman, one Mr. Robinson, for the killing of the brother of M. Egerton, slaine in the field vpon a quarrell betwixt the said M. Egerton slaine, and one M. Morgan, with whom (as it is said) the said M. Robinson at the same time went as a friend into the field, &c. The proofes being no more apparent, and the Defendant challenged, &c. as by the formes of our ancient Lawes first aboue recited, it was granted by the Iudges of the Land, that it should be tried by Combat: The Gloue or Gauntlet was cast downe in the open Court, ex parte prouocantis, and receiued in due forme, ex parte defendentis. The Oath was administred solemnly, and pledges put in by each partie, foure sufficient men to answer for either, body for body. But an errour or scape being made in the plea, the bill was frustrated, so that they came not at all to the Lists. An Antiquarie, * Verstegan by name, in his Booke intituled, A Restitution of decaied Intelligence, in Antiquities concerning the most noble and renowned English Nation, sets it downe in these words, and saith thus: In the triall by Single Cōmbat or Camp-fight, the accuser was with the perill of his owne bodie to prooue the accused guiltie, and by offering him his gloue, to challenge him to this triall: the which the other must either accept of, or else acknowledge himselfe culpable of the crime whereof he was accused. If it were a crime deseruing death, then was the Camp-fight for life and death, and either on horsebacke or on foot. If the offence deserued imprisonment, and not death, then was the Camp-fight accomplished when the one had subdued the other, by making him to yeeld, or vnable to defend himselfe, and so bee taken prisoner. The accused had the libertie to choose another in his stead, but the accuser must performe it in his owne person, and with equalitie of weapons. No Women were admitted to behold it, nor no men-children vnder the age of thirteene yeeres. The Priests and people that were spectators, did silently pray that the victory might fall vnto the guiltlesse. And if the fight were for life or death, a Beere stood ready to carry away the dead bodie of him that should bee slaine. None of the people might crie, strike out, make any noise, or giue any signe whatsoeuer. * This was so strictly and seuerely punished at Hall in Swevia, (a place appointed for Camp-fight) that the Executioner stood beside the Iudges, ready with an axe to cut off the right hand and left foot, of the partie so offending. Hee that (being wounded) did yeeld himselfe, was at the mercie of the other, to be killed, or to be let liue. If he were slaine, then was he carried away, and honourably buried; and he that slue him reputed more honourable than before. But if being ouercome he were left aliue, then was he by sentence of the Iudges, declared vtterly void of all honest reputation, and neuer to ride on horsebacke, nor carrie armes. Verstegan, pag: 64. Neuer to ride on horsebacke.

both

e ☞ Commaundrie (Præceptoria) was by some mens opinion a Mannour or chiefe Messuage with which Lands or Tenements were occupied, belonging to the Priorie of S. Iohns in Ierusalem, in England. De quibus ¶ Gregor: lib: de beneficijs, cap: 11. num: 11. hæc habet verba: Præceptoriæ dictæ commendæ sacrorum militum veluti ordinis hospitalij S. Ioannis Hierosolymitani, beneficia quidem secundum quid Ecclesiastica dicuntur, à Barbatia ad Clemente: causam, Col: 51. de electione. Tamen non propriè dicuntur ex genere communium beneficiorum, eò quòd personæ conferentes, & quibus conferuntur, non sunt Laicæ vel Ecclesiasticæ, sed tertij Ordinis. De his fit mentio cap: exhibita de priuilegijs de extrauag: com: in cap: Dudum de decimis. These in many places of our Realme are tearmed by the name of Temples, because they sometime belonged to the Templars. Of which you may read Anno 29. H. 8. cap: 2. & Anno 32. eiusdem, cap. 24. He which had the gouernment of any such Mannour or house, was called the Commander, who had nothing to dispose of it, but to the vse of the Priorie, taking only his sustenance thence, according to his degree, and was vsually a brother of the same Priorie. Author of the new termes of Law, verbo Commaundrie. And of these Gregorius Tolosanus lib: 15. sui syntagmatis, cap: 34. hath these words: Monuimus superiori capite, crescente numero peregrinorum, iuxta Templum Hierosolymitanum Xenodochium ædificatum, Tit: Diui Iohannis, quo exciperentur peregrini, quos Cœnobia capere non possunt. Huius ergò ministerio quoque viri pij nobiles se deuouerunt, qui & peregrinos tutarentur, & à latronum seu Agarenórum incursu defenderent. Horum professio est votum solenne paupertatis, & abdicationis propriorum, castitatis, & obedientiæ. Proinde propter primum votum, nihil propriè habent, vel habere debent, sed accipiunt annonam, quam diu viuunt, vel præceptorias, quas vocant Commandries, administrant quàm diu eas possident, & optione mutant, vel ex magistri licentia permutant reddituri morientes, quæ apud eos reperientur societati. Of these Corasius in his Paraphrase Ad Sacerd: Mat: parte prim: ca: 3. saith thus: Præceptoriæ Rhodienses, cùm non nisi fratribus Hierosolymitanis, atque ita personis Ecclesiasticis conferantur, beneficijs Ecclesiasticis annumerari meritò debent.

2298 ☞ Cónge d'eslire, i.venia eligendi, leaue to chuse. It is a meere French word, and signifieth in our Common Law the Kings permission royall to a Deane and Chapter in time of vacation to chuse a Bishop, or to an Abbie or Priorie to chuse their Abbot or Prior. ¶ Fitz:nat:br:fol:169.B.170. B.C.&c. Touching this matter, M.Gwin in the Preface to his Readings saith, that the King of England, as Soueraigne Patron of all Archbishopricks, Bishopricks, and other Ecclesiasticall Benefices, had of ancient time free appointment of all Ecclesiasticall Dignities, whensoeuer they chanced to bee void, inuesting them first per Baculum & Annulum, i. with a staffe and a Ring, and afterward by his Letters Patents: And that in processe of time he made the election ouer to others, vnder certaine formes and conditions: As namely, that they should at euery vacation, before they chuse, demand of the King Cónge d'eslire, that is, licence and leaue to proceed to election; and then after the election, to craue his royall assent, &c. And further he affirmeth by good proofe out of Common Law Bookes, that King Iohn was the first that granted this, and that it was afterward confirmed by Westm:pri:cap: which Statute was made Anno 3. Ed:prim: And againe by the Statute articuli Cleri ca:2.which was ordained Anno 25. Ed:3. Statuto tertio. Cónge d'eslire.

2326-1 ☞ Conseruatour or Conseruer of the peace. L. Conseruator vel Custos pacis, a Keeper or Preseruer of the peace, is he that hath an especiall charge by vertue of his Office, to see the Kings peace kept: which peace learned M. Lamberd defineth in effect, to be a with-holding or abstinence from that iniurious force and violence which boisterous and vnruly persons are in their natures prone to vse toward others, were they not restrained by Lawes and feare of punishment. Of the Conseruators hee further saith thus: That before the time of King Edward the Third, who first erected Iustices of Peace, there were sundrie persons, that by the Common Law had interest in keeping of the peace. Of these some had that charge, as incident to their Offices which they did beare, and so included within the same, that they were neuerthelesse called by the name of their Office only. Some others had it simply as of it selfe, and were thereof named Custodes pacis, Wardens or Conseruatours of the peace. The former and latter sort he againe subdiuideth: which reade in his Eirenarcha, lib: 1. cap: 3.

Heb: קשר kescher.

b ☞ Conspiracie. Though in Latine and French it be vsed for an agreement of men to doe any thing, either good or bad, yet in our Lawyers Bookes it is alwaies taken in the euill part. It is defined Anno 34. Ed. prim: Statut: 2. to be an agreement of such as doe confedre or binde themselues, by oath, couenant, or other alliance, that euery of them shall beare and aid the other falsly and maliciously to indight, or falsly to moue or maintaine plees: and also such as cause children within age to appeale men of Felonie, whereby they are imprisoned and sore greeued: and such as receiue men in the Countries, with Liueries, or fees to maintaine their malicious enterprise: and this extendeth it selfe as well to the takers as the giuers, and Stewards and Bailiffes of great Lords, which by their seignorie, office or power, vndertake to beare, or maintaine quarrels, plees, or debates, that concerne other parties, than such as touch the estate of their Lords, or themselues. Anno 4. Ed. 3. cap. 11. Anno 3. Hen. 7. cap. 13. Of this see more Anno 1. H. 5. c. 3. & Anno 18. H. 6. cap. 12. As also in the new Booke of Entries, ver: Conspiracie. And being thus taken as afore mentioned, it is confounded with Maintenance and Champertie: but in a more speciall signification it is taken for a confederacie of two at the least, falsly to indict one, or to procure one to bee indicted of Felonie. And the punishment of conspiracie vpon an indictment of Felonie at the Kings suit, is that the partie attainted leese his Franke law, to the intent that he be not empanelled vpon Iuries, or Assises, or such like imploiments, for the testifying of truth. And if he haue to doe in the Kings Court, that he make his Atturney, and that his lands, goods, and chattels be seised into the Kings hands, his lands estreped (if he finde no better fauour) his trees raced, his bodie committed to prison. 27. lib: assis: 59. ¶ Cromptons Iustice of peace, f. 156. b. This is called villanous iudgement, or punishment. See Villanous Iudgement. But if the partie grieued sue vpon the writ of Conspiracie, then see Fitzh: nat: br: f. 114. D. 115. I. Conspiracie may be also in cases of lesse weight. Idem fo: 116. A. And see Franke Law.

b ☞ Constable (Constabulárius vel Conestábulis) is as some thinke a Saxon word compounded of Cuning or Cing and Staple, which doe signifie the stay and hold of the King. ¶ Lamb: Duties of Constab: nu: 4. Others say of these two words Comes stabuli; which seemeth to be the more probable, because we haue this Office from France (as most others) and not from the Saxons. So Tilius in his Commentaries (de rebus Gallicis) lib: 2. cap: de Constabuli, quia præest stabulo, i. equili regis, seu hippocomiæ. This Office is ancient heere in England, and mentioned by Bracton, seeming to answer him that was called Tribunus celerum vnder the first Kings of Rome, and afterward Magister Equitum. This word is diuersly vsed in our Common Law: first for the Constable of England, who is called Marshall. ¶ Stawn: pl: cor: f. 65. of whose great dignitie and authoritie, a man may finde many arguments and signes, both in Statutes and Chronicles of this Realme. His sway consisteth in the common peace of the Land, in deeds of armes, and matters of warres. ¶ Lamb. vbi suprà. With him agreeth the Statute Anno 13. R. 2. cap. 2. Statuto 1. ¶ Smith de repub: Anglo: lib: 2. cap. 25. Of this Officer or Magistrate, ¶ Mr. Gwin in the preface to his Reading saith to this effect; The Court of the Constable or Marshiall determineth contracts touching deeds of armes out of the Realme, and handleth matters concerning warres within the Realme, as Combats, Blazons of armorie, &c. But he may not deale with battell in appeales, nor generally with any other thing that may be tried by the Law of the Land. Reade ¶ Fortescue cap: 32. This Office was belonging heeretofore to the Lords of certaine Mannours Iure Feudi: and why it is discontinued, Vi. Dyer fo: 258. nu: 39. Out of this Magistracie of honour and renowne, were drawen those lower Constables of Hundreds and Franchises, and first ordained by the Statute of Winchester, Anno 13. Ed. 1. which appointeth for the conseruation of the peace, and view of armour, two Constables in euery Hundred and Franchise, which in Latine are called Constabularij Capitales, and now adaies called High Constables, because continuance of time, and increase both of people and offenses, hath againe vnder these made others in euery towne, called Pettie Constables, in Latine Subconstabularios, which are of like nature, but of inferiour authoritie to the other, as you may reade at large in that learned mans Treatise before cited: as also Sir Thomas Smith lib: 2. cap. 22. Beside these there be Officers of peculiar places called by this name, as Constable of the Tower, ¶ Stawnf: pl: cor: fol: 152. And Ann. 1. H. 4. cap. 13. Stowes Annals 812. Copihold tenure. e ☞ Copihold, (L. Tenura per copiam rotuli curiæ) is a tenure, for the which the Tenant hath nothing to ſhew, but the Copie of the rolles made by the Steward of his Lords Court. For the Steward, as he enrolleth and maketh remembrances of all other things done in the Lords Court; ſo hee doth alſo of ſuch Tenents as be admitted in the Court, to any parcell of Land, or Tenement belonging to the Mannour. And the Tranſcript of this is called the Court-roll, the copie whereof the Tenent taketh from him, and keepeth as his onely euidence. ¶ Coke lib: 4. fol: 25. b. This tenure is called a baſe tenure, becauſe it holdeth at the will of the Lord. ¶ Kitchin fol: 80. chap: Copiholds. ¶ Fitzherbert nat: br: fo: 12. B. C. who there ſaith that it was wont to be called tenure in villenage, and that this word Copihold is but a new name: yet is it not ſimply at the will of the Lord, but according to the cuſtome of the Mannour. So that if a Copiholder breake not the cuſtome of the Mannour, and thereby forfeit his tenure, hee ſeemeth not ſo much to ſtand at the Lords courteſie for his right, that he may be diſplaced, hand ouer head at his pleaſure. Theſe cuſtomes of Mannours be infinite, varying in one point or other almoſt in euery ſeuerall Mannour. Firſt ſome Copihold is fineable, and ſome certaine: that which is fineable, the Lord rateth at what fine or income he pleaſeth, when the tenent is admitted vnto it: that which is certaine, is a kinde of inheritance, and called in many places cuſtomarie, becauſe the tenent dying, and the hold being void, the next of the bloud paying the cuſtomarie fine, as two ſhillings for an acre, or ſuch like, may not be denied his admiſſion. Secondly, ſome Copiholders haue by cuſtome the wood growing vpon their owne land, which by law they could not haue. ¶ Kitchin vbi ſuprà. Thirdly, Copiholders, ſome be ſuch as hold by the verge in ancient demeſne: and although they hold by copie, yet are they in account a kinde of Freeholders: for if ſuch a one commit felonie, the King hath (annum, diem, & vaſtum) as in caſe of Freehold. Some other hold by common tenure, called meere copihold: and they committing felonie, their land eſcheateth to the Lord of the Mannour foorthwith. ¶ Kitchin fol: 81. cap. Tenents per verge. Vi. Demaine. Tenent by copie of Court-roll. This in the Saxons time was called Folkland. ¶ Lamberd explicat: of Saxon words, verbo Terra.

f ☞ Copiholder, or Tenent by copie of Court-roll, is he which is admitted tenent of any lands, or tenements, within a Mannour, that time out of minde by vſe and cuſtome of the ſaid Mannour, haue beene demiſeable, and demiſed to ſuch as will take the ſame in fee, in feetaile, for life, yeeres, or at will, according to the cuſtome of the ſaid Mannour, by Copie of Court-roll of the ſame Mannour. ¶ Weſt: part: 1. ſymb: lib: 2. ſect: 646.

2438 ☞ Corodie, commeth of the Lat: Corrodo, and signifieth in our Common Law a summe of money, or allowance of meat and drinke, due to the King from an Abbey or other House of Religion, whereof hee is the founder, toward the reasonable sustenance of such a one of his seruants, being put to his pension, as he thinketh good to bestow it on. And the difference betweene a * Corodie and a Pension, seemeth to be, that a Corodie is allowed toward the maintenance of any the Kings seruants, that liueth in the Abbey: a Pension is giuen to one of the Kings Chaplaines, for his better maintenance in the Kings seruice, vntill hee may bee prouided of a Benefice. Of both these reade Fitz:nat:br:fo:230.231.233. who there setteth downe all the Corodies and Pensions certaine that any Abbey when they stood was bound to performe vnto the King. There is mention also of a Corodie in Stawnf:prærog:fo:44. And this seemeth to be ancient Law. For in Westmin: 2. cap: 25. it is ordained that an Assise shall lie for a Corodie. It is also apparant by the Statute Ann. 34. & 35. H. 8. cap. 16. that Corodies belonged sometimes to the Bishops from Monasteries: And by the New Termes of Law, that a Corodie may be due to a common person by grant from one to another, or of common right, to him that is founder of a Religious House, not holden in Franke Almoyn. For that tenure was a discharge of all Corodies in it selfe. By which Booke it appeareth also, that a Corodie is either certaine or vncertaine, and that it may bee for life or yeeres, in taile, or in fee.

2523 a County. G Conté, Comté. I. Contádo. H. P. Condádo. L. Comitatus. Vi. Countie. It signifieth as much as Shire: the one descending from the French, the other from the Saxons, both containing a circuit or portion of the Realme, into the which the whole Land is diuided, for the better gouernment thereof, and the more easie administration of iustice. So that there is no part of the Kingdome, that lieth not within some Countie, and euerie Countie is gouerned by a yeerely Officer, whom wee call a Shyreeue. Of these Counties there be foure of especiall marke, which therefore are termed Countie Palatines,* as the Countie Palatine of Lancaster, of Chester, of Durham, and of Ely. And this Countie Palatine is a Iurisdiction of so high a nature, that whereas all plees touching the life or maime of man, called Plees of the Crowne, be ordinarily held and sped in the Kings name, and cannot passe in the name of any other; the chiefe Gouernours of these, by especiall Charter from the King, did heeretofore send out all Writs in their owne name, and did all things touching iustice, as absolutely as the Prince himselfe in other Counties, only acknowledging him their Superiour and Soueraigne. But by the statute ¶ Anno 27. H 8. c. 25. this power is much abridged. There bee likewise Counties Corporate, as appeareth by the statute Anno 3. Ed. 4. ca. 5. and these be certaine Cities, or ancient Boroughs of the land, vpon which the Princes of our Nation haue thought good to bestow such extraordinarie liberties. Of these the famous Citie of London is one, and the principall, Yorke another, ¶ Anno 32. H. 8. cap. 13. the Citie of Chester a third, ¶ Anno 42. Elizab: cap. 15. Canterburie a fourth, ¶ Lambert Eiren: l. 1. cap 9. And to these may be added many moe: but I haue only obserued out of the Statutes, and other Writers, the Countie of the towne of Kingston vpon Hull, ¶ Anno 32. H. 8. cap. 26. And the Countie of Litchfield, ¶ Cromptons Iustice of peace, fo: 59. 2. The Countie of the towne of Hauorford, ¶ West: Anno 35. H. 8. cap. 26. Of these Counties or Shires, one with another, there are reckoned in England 37. besides twelue in Wales. The word Comitatus is vsed also for a iurisdiction or territorie among the Feudists. Vi. Palatine.

* Foure Countie Palatines.

London, Yorke, Chester, Canterburie.

b ☞ County-Court, (Curia Comitatus) by Mr. Lambard is otherwise called Curia Conuentus, in his explication of Saxon words, and diuided into two sorts: one reteining the generall name, as the County-court held euery moneth by the Shyreeue, or his deputie the Vnder-shyreeue, whereof you may reade in Cromptons Iurisdict: fol: 231. The other called the turne, held twice euery yeere, once after Michaelmas, and againe once after Easter, Magna Charta cap. 35. and that within one moneth after each Feast. This Countie-Court had in old times the cognition of great matters, as may appeare by Glanuile lib. 1. cap. 2. 3. 4. From this Court are exempted onely Arch-bishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, Earles, Barons, all religious men and women, and all such as haue Hundreds of their owne to be kept. Vi. plura in ☞ Turne.

e ☞ Court, Curia. It commeth of the French Court, which signifieth the Kings Palace or mansion house. It springs originally from the Lat: Curia, which signifieth one of thirty parts, into which Romulus diuided the whole number of the Romans, sometime also the Senate house. Court with vs signifieth diuersly, as the house where presently the King remaineth with his ordinarie retinue, and also the place where iustice is iudicially ministred. Of which you may finde 32. seuerall sorts in ¶ M. Cromptons Booke of Iurisdictions well described, and of them most be Courts of Record, some be not, and therefore are accounted base Courts in comparison of the rest. Besides these also there are * Courts Christian, ¶ Smith de repub: Angl: lib: 3. cap: 9. which are so called because they handle matters especially concerning Christianitie, and such as without good knowledge in diuinitie cannot bee well iudged of, being held heretofore by Archbishops and Bishops, as from the Pope of Rome, because he challenged the superioritie in all causes spirituall: but sithence they hold them by the Kings authoritie (virtute magistratus sui) as the Admirall of England doth his Court. Whereupon it proceedeth, that they send out their precepts in their owne names, and not in the Kings, as the Iustices of the Kings Courts doe. And therefore as the appeale from these Courts did lie to Rome, now by the Statute Anno 25. H. 8. cap: 19. it lieth to the King in his Chauncerie.

g ☞ Court Baron, Curia Baronis, is a Court that euery Lord of a Mannour (which in ancient times were called Barons) hath within his owne precincts. Barons in other Nations haue great territories and iurisdiction from their Soueraignes, as may be prooued out of ¶ Cassanæus de gloria mundi, part: 5. considerat: 56. by ¶ Vincent: de Franchis decisi: 211. and many others. Of this Court Baron you may reade your fill in ¶ Kitchin, that writeth a large booke of it, and of Court Leet. ¶ Sir Edward Coke in his fourth Booke of Reports, amongst his Copie hold Cases, fol: 26. b. saith, that this Court is two after a sort: and therefore if a man hauing a Mannour in a Towne, and doe grant the inheritance of the Copie-holders thereunto belonging vnto another, this Grantee may keepe a Court for the customarie tenents, and accept surrenders to the vse of others, and make both admittances and grants. The other Court is of Free-holders, which is properly called the Court Baron, wherein the suiters, that is, the Free-holders be Iudges, whereas of the other the Lord or his Steward is Iudge.

Court Christian.

k ☞ Court of Requests, Curia Requestárum, is a Court of equitie of the same nature with the Chancerie, principally instituted for the helpe of such Petitioners as in conscionable cases deale by supplication with his Maiestie. This Court, as M. Gwin saith in the preface to his Readings, had beginning from commission granted by Hen. 8. to the Masters of Requests, whereas before that time (by his opinion) they had no warrant of ordinarie iurisdiction, but trauelled betweene the King and the Petitioner, by direction from the Kings mouth. But * Sir Iulius Cæsar, sometime a Master thereof, in a Tractate of his, painfully and iudiciously gathered from the Records of the same Court, plainly sheweth, that this Court was Anno 9. Henr. 7. though then following the King, and not setled in any certaine place, neither swaied particularly by the Masters of Requests (as now it is) but more at large by others of the Kings most honourable Councell, whom he pleased to employ in this ser-

Court of Requests.

vice;

ne. For pag: 148. of the said tractate, you haue the forme of the oath there ministred to those that were Iudges in this Court. And pag: prim: vsque ad pag: 46. causes of diuers natures, which in the said Kings daies were there handled and adiudged. This Court, as that Right honourable and learned Knight, in a briefe of his vpon the same Court, plainly prooueth, was and is parcell of the Kings most honourable Counsell appointed by the King to keepe his Councell board. The keeping of this Court was neuer tied to any place certaine, but only where the Councell sate the suiters were to attend. But now of late for the ease of suiters, it hath beene kept in the White Hall at Westminster, and onely in the Terme time. It is a Court of Record, wherein Recognizances are also taken by the Kings Counsell. The forme of proceeding in this Court was altogether according to the processe of summarie causes in the Ciuill Law. The persons, Plaintifes and Defendants, were alwaies either priuileged as Officers of the Court, or their seruants, or as the Kings seruants, or as necessarie attendants of them, or else where the Plaintifes pouertie or meane state was not matchable with the wealth or greatnesse of the Defendant, or where the cause meerely contained matter of equitie, and had no proper remedie at the Common Law; or where it was especially recommended from the King to the examination of his Counsell; or concerned Vniuersities, Colleges, Hospitals, and the like. The causes wherewith they deale, and whereof they iudge, are of all sorts, as maritime, vltra marine, Ecclesiasticall, Temporall; but properly temporall causes, and onely of the other sort as they are mixt with temporall. The manner of proceeding in the said Court, is first by priuie seale, letters missiue, or iniunction, or messenger, or bond: Secondly, by attachement; thirdly, by proclamation of rebellion; fourthly, by commission of rebellion; fifthly, by Sergeant at Armes. The effect of the Defendants apparence, is, that he attend, de die in diem, on the Counsell, till he haue made his answer to the Plaintifes bill, and be licensed to depart, vpon caution, de iudicio sisti, & iudicato soluendo, and constitution of his Atturnie and Counsell by name. The authoritie of this Court is such, as vpon cause to grant iniunctions for barring the Defendant from suing the Plaintife at the Common Law, and to stay the suit at the Common Law before the Commencement, and not to arrest the bodie of the Plaintife till further order be taken by the Kings Counsell. And the execution of a Decree in this Court may be done either by imprisonment of the person disobeying, being partie, or claiming vnder the partie, or by leuie of the summe adiudged vpon his lands. De Magistris Requestarum vel Libellorum in Gallia, grauis ille Autor Vincentius Lupanus lib. 2. de Magistratibus Francorum his verbis ita præfatur: Si quis diligentius considerauerit Præfectorum libellorum Authoritatem, eos reperiet summo apud nos in honore fuisse, atque facilè primum locum post Cancellarium obtinuisse in re iudiciaria. Mosque primùm fuit porrigendi libellos Regibus, cùm iura reddebant: deinde cùm vtrijs negotijs distracti essent, (vt ferè propagatis regni finibus curæ augescunt) factum vt simul mense postulationibus vacarent cum prudentum consilio, quorum maximum munerum habebant. Quòd si leuiores viderentur, eis subscriberent: si grauiores, de eis ad iurisperitos referrent qui ibi aderant. Demùm diuitiæ animos luxumque auxere: & eo tempore Rex rem totam iudiciariam Cancellarij fidei permisit, qui exoriente tot causarum multitudine, aliena opera cœpit indigere, (* vt semper animus hominum in diuersa tractus, minimè suum officium facit) duoque creati, qui non vt nunc, Magistri libellorum dicerentur, quibus à Principis aula abesse non liceret, & Cancellarij assessores essent. Postea sancitum à Philippo, vt in Curia quinque adessent, nempè tres Sacerdotes, & duo (vt vocant) Laici, quibus vna Curiæ classis constabat. Deinde auctus vno numerus, quo etiam tempore Magistri Requestarum dicti sunt. Postremò duo additi sunt, quibus omnibus ius est censendi & sedendi in primo tribunali Curiæ proximo loco post Præsides. Solent à Principe creari (quos nostrates Extraordinarios vocant) quibus nullum stipendium præstari solet; hique plerumque in demortuorum locum sufficiuntur. Hoc Magisterio libellorum Francisci Regis liberalitate donatus est * Gulielmus Budæus Galliæ ornamentum. Hoc quoque Magistratu functus est sub Seuero, Papinianus, Iuris asylum dictus, & Vlpianus eius Discipulus, à nonnullis à libellis, ab alijs ad libellos dicti. 2712 a Cube, a geometricall bodie foure-square. G. Cúbe. I. H. P. Cubo. L. Cúbus, i. Gr. κύβος. Est figura ex omni latere quadrata, quales sunt tesseræ, dice, quibus in alueolo luditur, quæ etiam κύβοι à Græcis sunt appellatæ. It is a figure euery way foure-square as a Die to play withall, which in Greeke is called κύβος, παρὰ τὸ κυκλόθεν βάσιν ἔχειν, quod circum circa, & ex omni parte basim habeat planam & solidam: because euery way or side it hath the bottome plaine and euen.

2713 * Cubebes, an aromaticall or Indian spice or fruit. G. Cubebes. H. Cubébas. I. Cubébe.

2714 a Cubit. G. Coubdée, & Coudée. I. Cúbito. H. Códo. P. Covádo. L. Cúbitus, i. Cúbitum, i. Propriè significat curuaturam brachij, vbi lacerto iungitur. Sed in hoc loco accipitur pro mensura cubiti, quantum à cubito brachij vsque ad extremam manum est. Vel à κύπτω, i. curuo, incuruo, propter flexuram. Vel à cubando, quoniam dum cibos capimus, in ipso cubamus. ¶ Isid: Either of the Greeke κύπτω, to bow or bend, or of the Latine cubo, to lie downe or leane, because when we take meat we lie or leane on our elbowes and handwreests, which is called cubitus in Latine. T. Eyn masz anderthalb schuch lang, i. a measure of a foot and halfe length. B. Cubit, à Lat: suprà. Mate van anderhalue voet, i. mensura sesquipedalis. Gr. πῆχυς, i. propriè cubitus, à παχύς, i. densus, crassus, propter partes osseas. Br. Braychle. Heb: אמה ammah, quod & cubitum significat in corpore humano, & mensuram etiam cubitalem. ¶ Auen: Hinc Gr. ὦμος, i. humerus, pars brachij superior, inquit idem ¶ Auen:

2715 Cuchanell. G. Couchenil, à Lat: coccinus, a, um, i. skarlet or crimson colour, because it is a graine to die that colour withall. La graine de quoy on fait l'escarlátte. I. Cócco, Gráno da tíngere scarlátto. H. La grana para teñir. T. Ein körlein damit man scharlach färbet, Scharlach-beer, q. bacca coccinea. Coccus, i, & Coccum, i. Gr. κόκκος, i. granum, κατ' ἐξοχήν. Est namque granum ex arbuscula ilici simile, vel ex rubenti gramine nascens. Vulgò Granum dicitur, quod ad purpuram tingendam adhibetur. Coccum à Dioscoride κόκκος βαφική dicitur, i. granum tinctorium. Frutex est fullonius, cui adhærent grana, quibus fit color lanarum præcipuus: cuius copia summa in ea parte Hispaniæ, quæ Tudertana appellatur, vt est Autor Strabo lib: 10.

Cucking stoole. 2716 a Cucking-stoole, is an Engine inuented for the punishment of Scolds and vnquiet women, called in ancient time a Tumbrell. ¶ Lamb: Eirenarc: l. 1. cap: 12. fo: 62. In meo. ¶ Bracton writeth this word Tymborella. ¶ Kitchin (where hee saith that euery one hauing view of Frankpledge, ought to haue a Pillorie and a Tumbrell) seemeth by a Tumbrell to meane the same thing. ¶ Cap: Charge in Court Leet, fo: 13.2. L. Tumbrella, Turbacetum, fortassis quia turbas sedat, & pacem conciliat, licèt non amore virtutis, tamen formidine eiusdem pœnæ. Mulieribus enim quæ rixando, & altercando, & contumelijs afficiendo, vicinos suos (in feruore sanguinis sui) lacerant, & pacem publicam disturbant, refrigerationis gratia, hæc pœna constituta est, tali morbo peculiare remedium. Sic moris fuit apud antiquos nostros, idem etiam nobis in more positum est, posteri antiquum obtineant. Cucking-stoole, or rather Ducking-stoole, because sitting in the same (which is in fashion of a chaire) offenders are ducked, i. let downe into the water ouer head and eares, three or foure times, so that no part of them doth remaine aboue the water, diuing or ducking downe (though against their willes) as duckes vse to doe vnder the water. I. Berlina, Berlino.

2717 a Cuckold. G. Cocú. B. Kockoec, Horen-drager, q. qui gestat cornua. T. Kuckuck. L. Curruca. Nomen habet ab aue eiusdem appellationis, quia vt illa cuculi pullum pro suo educat, sic & ille alienos liberos pro suis. Cuculus apud ¶ Plaut: eum significat, qui alienam tangit vxorem, & vitiat, i. adulterum, quem Angl: dicimus a Cuckold-maker. Cuculi verò, vt annotauit ¶ Hotman: in verb: feud: etiam agricolæ dicuntur, qui vites suas ante cuculi aduentum non amputant. Hinc metaphoricè homines qui thori sui curam non habent, sed vxores patiuntur ab alio vindemiatore decerpi, dicuntur Cuculi. Vulgò dicitur Cornutus, Cerasphorus. Vndè I. Cornúto, Bécco cornuto, q. caper corniger dictus, fortassis à libidine eorum, quâ accensi dum alienam vxorem appetunt, à proprijs vxoribus remunerationem accipiunt. H. P. Cornudo. Græ. κεράσφορος, i. corniger, à κέρας, i. cornu, & φέρω, i. fero, gesto, porto. Br. Rog, quod & aues ... significat. Cuckold.

2718 a Cuckow, a bird so called. G. Cocú, Coqú, Coquú, Coucéu. I. Cucco, Cúculo. H. Cuclillo. P. Cuco. B. Kuyckuck, Kuyck-kuyck, Kock-kock. T. Guckgauch, Kuckuk, Gucker. L. Cúculus, i, m. Gr. κόκκυξ. Nomen habet à sono quem edit: He hath his name of his note and singing, Cuckow, Cuckow. Est auis ex genere accipitrum, quamuis aduncis vnguibus careat, verno tempore procedens, & sub caniculæ exortum sese occultans. Est enim ex genere eorum quæ ¶ Aristot: vocat ζῷα φωλεύοντα, i. animalia quæ hyberno tempore latebras quærunt.

Curuimeres, i. crooked, so called as Varro saith, of their crooked growing. Vndè & tortum Cucúmerem vocat Virgilius 4. Georg: — tortusque per herbam Cresceret in ventrem cucumis. Vel à κυκυός, idem. Vndè & cuma, quòd ventrem magnum habet. ¶ Scalig: ad ¶ Varron: κυκυός autem, vt & σικύς & σικυός, fiunt ab Heb: קשאים kischschuim, i. cucumeres in plural: ¶ Auen: Hi mem odêre canes & frigora: die sexto vel septimo à satione prodeunt: tenerrimi autem & iucundissimi fient, si semen ante sationem lacte fuerit maceratum. Qui verò præcoces habere volunt festinante bruma, stercoratam terram in cophinis habeant, ibique semen condant, & modicum præbeant humorem: deinde cùm enata semina fuerint, tepidis diebus & insolatis, iuxta ædificia sub Dio ponant, & omnia à vento protegant. Cæterùm frigoribus ac tempestatibus sub tectum referant, idque tamdiu faciant, quousque æquinoctium vernum conficiatur, & nulla amplius reliqua sit pruina suspicio. Posteà totos cophinos dimittant in terram: sic enim præcoces habebunt fructus. Recens cucumis in tenues particulas sectus, & impositus aceto, quascunque inflammationes sedat, quinetiam in ardentibus febribus ariditatem linguæ aufert, si frequenter in ore retineatur. ¶ Matth: in comment: in lib: 3. Σίνω, à σίω, i. damnum affero, detrimento afficio. ἐκβολή, ejectio mercium in tempestate, jactura, ab ἐκβάλλω, i. ejicio. Heb: נזק nezek. Cognationem habet cum זקים zikkim, i. compedes, qui sunt nocumento & incommodo, vel quibus detinebantur perniciosi homines. But for our English word Dámmage, it comes as I take it, of the French Dam, or Domáge, signifying generally any hurt or hinderance that a man taketh in his estate. But in the Common Law it particularly signifieth a part of that the Iurors bee to enquire of, passing for the Plaintiffe or Demandant in a ciuill action, be it personall or reall. For after verdict giuen of the principall cause, they are likewise asked their consciences touching costs (which be the charges of suit, called of the Ciuilians expensę litis) and dammages, which containe the hindrance that the Plaintiffe or Demandant hath suffered by meanes of the wrong done to him by the Defendant or Tenant.

b ☞ Dammage feisant, is when a strangers beasts are in another mans ground, without lawfull authoritie or licence of the Tenant of the ground, and there doe feed, tread, and otherwise spoile the corne, grasse, woods, or such like. In which case the Tenant whom they hurt, may therefore take, distraine, and impound them, as well in the night as in the day. But in other cases, as for rent, and seruices, and such like, none may distraine in the night season. ¶ New Termes of the Law.

2905 ☞ Daneguilt, Danegelt, or Danegold, (Danegeldum) compounded of Dane, and gelt, i. pecunia: and was a tribute laid vpon our Ancestours, of twelue pence for euery hide of land thorow the Realme, by the Danes, that once got the masterie of vs, in regard (as they pretended) of clearing the Seas of Pyrates, which greatly annoied our Land in those daies. ¶ Cambden Britan: pag: 83. with whom agree the Lawes of Edward set out by ¶ M. Lambard cap: 11. ¶ Stow in his Annals pag. 118. saith that this tribute came to 48000. pounds by the yeere, and that it was released by Edward the Confessour. ¶ The Author of the New Termes of Law saith that this tribute beganne in the time of King Etheldred, who being sore distressed by the continuall inuasion of the Danes, to procure his peace, was compelled to charge his people with importable paiments. For first he gaue them at fiue seuerall paiments 113000. pounds yeerely. See ¶ Roger: Houeden part: poster: suorum annalium in Henrico Secundo, fol: 344. a. Etheldred was the first that paid this tribute vnto them, being so distressed by their continuall inuasions, that since he wanted force to make his longer defence, he thought it best to giue money for their continuall peace. The first paiment that hee paid, was 113000. pounds, and fortie eight thousand pounds yeerely, which was paid vnto them during the life of Swenus; and one and twentie thousand pounds to Canutus his sonne after his death, vpon the paiment whereof they made a corporall Oath to serue the King (as his Feodaries) against all strangers, and to liue as friends and allies, without endammaging his subiects: for want of which aid, succour, and helpe, King Ethelred after hee was forced and constrained to leaue his Countrie, and flie ouer into Normandie, they aduanced Canutus their Countriman to the Crowne. ¶ Lambard Perambulation of Kent, tit: Sandwich, and Greenewich. Danegelt.

2906 the Danes, of whose etymologie there be sundrie doubts. Some would haue it come from a Citie called Donia: others from the Danis a people of Scithia: others from Dauciones or Dankiones, or as Iunius will haue it, from the Firre trees, called in the Dutch tongue Dene, which grow in this Country in great plentie. But as the Chroniclers of our Countrie can finde no other deriuation of the Ancient Kings of the Britaines, than immediately from Brute, no more can the Danish Kings be found to haue any other beginning than immediately from Dan, who was their first King. And so it might be called (I say) Danmarck, from the said Dan, and the old Teutonicke word marck, which signifieth a limited place, or a place that is marked out for the possession of some people. ¶ Verstegan: pag: 156. ¶ Fung: ab Heb: דן dan, nescio qua verisimilitudine, deducit. Sic dicimus à Die, Nudiustertius, q. nunc dies tertius, the day before yesterday, as it were now the third day, reckoning this day for one, Nudius quartus, foure daies agoe, Nudius quintus, fiue daies agoe, Nudius sextus, i. nunc dies sextus, six daies agoe. De quibus vide suis locis in Alphabeto Latino in calce huius vocabularij. Heb: יום iom, in plur: ימים iamim & ימות iamoth. Vndè Chaldaicum יומא iomah, & יממא iemamah, idem, & Arab: iamin, &c. Br. Dydd, à Lat: Dies. Secundùm verò Gentiles nominandi sunt Dies à nominibus Planetarum, & quilibet Dies ab illo Planeta est nominandus, qui præest primæ horæ illius diei, vt Dies Solis, Dies Lunæ, Dies Martis, Dies Mercurij, Dies Iouis, Dies Veneris, Dies Saturni. Sunt enim 24. horæ in Die naturali, & Planetæ sunt 7. qui præsunt istis 24. horis, quas habent in sua potestate hoc ordine: Primus habet primam horam, Secundus habet secundam, sic vsque ad septimam: Postea iterum primus habet octauam, secundus habet nonam, & sic vsque ad 14. horam. Posteà rursus primus habet decimam quintam, secundus decimam sextam, & sic vsque ad 21. Postea iterum primus habet vigesimam secundam horam, secundus vigesimam tertiam, tertius vigesimam quartam horam, & sic finitus est Dies 24. horarum. Quartus ergo Planeta qui sequitur habebit primam horam sequentis diei, & ita ille Dies denominabitur ab eo. Exempli gratia, ponatur quòd iste Dies hodiernus sit Dies Saturni, & habeatur ordo Planetarum qui talis est, habito principio à superiori sic, Saturnus, Iupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercurius, Luna. Igitur Saturnus hodie habet primam horam, Iupiter secundam, Mars tertiam, Sol quartam, Venus quintam, Mercurius sextam, Luna septimam: Iterum Saturnus octauam, Iupiter nonam, Mars decimam, Sol vndecimam, Venus duodecimam, Mercurius 13. Luna 14. Rursus Saturnus 15. Iupiter 16. Mars 17. Sol 18. Venus 19. Mercurius 20. Luna 21. Item Saturnus 22. Iupiter 23. Mars 24. viz: vltimam. Sol ergò qui sequitur habebit primam horam sequentis Diei, Vndè ille Dies dictus est Dies Solis, & sic inuenies si enumeres Dies cæteros secundùm ordinem Planetarum, vt suprà. Daies were called by the Heathens and Romans of the Latine Dijs, that is, Gods, which they then worshipped, amongst whom were the 7. Planets, vnto each of which they dedicated a day of the weeke, and called it by the name of that Planet which had the first houre of that day. The names of the 7. Planets are these, in order thus: Saturne, Iupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercurie, Luna. Now note that in the naturall day there be 24. houres, and Planets 7. which doe gouerne these 24. houres, after this maner: The first Planet hath the first houre, the second hath the second, and so vnto the seuenth: Againe the first planet hath the eighth houre, the second the ninth, so vnto 14. Afterwards the first planet hath the 15. houre, the second the 16. and so foorth to 21. Then yet againe the first planet hath the 22. houre, the second the 23. the third planet the 24. houre, and so the whole naturall day of 24. houres is finished and ended. Therefore the 4. Planet that followeth shall haue the first houre of the following day, and so that day shall take his name of that Planet. As for example, suppose this day were Saturday, let vs beginne with his Planet, being first as they lie in order, Saturne, Iupiter, Mars, Sol, Venus, Mercurie, Luna, as before: therefore for this Saturday, the Planet Saturne hath the first houre, Iupiter the second, Mars the third, Sol the fourth, Venus the fifth, Mercurie the sixth, Luna the seuenth, then Saturne againe the eighth, Iupiter the ninth, Mars the tenth, Sol the eleuenth, Venus the twelfth, Mercurie the 13. Luna the 14. then Saturne againe 15. Iupiter 16. Mars 17. Sol 18. Venus 19. Mercurie 20. Luna 21. then once againe Saturne 22. Iupiter 23. Mars 24. and the last of that day, then followes Sol, which is to haue the first houre of the next day, which is called Sunday, in Latine Dies Solis, and so consequently you shall finde the daies of the weeke to fall vnder their proper Planets, by reckoning them and the houres as aboue I haue told you.

Tuesday.

e Tues-Day, or the second day of the weeke, had his denomination as ¶ Verstegan writeth in his Restitution of decaied Antiquities, pag: 10. of Tuisco, who was chiefe leader and ruler of the German Nation from the Tower of Babel, who in honour of him after his death called this second day Tuis-tag, Tuisco his day. And likewise after his name, euen vnto this day, doe in their owne tongue call themselues Tuytsch, and their countrey of Germanie Tuytsch-land. As also the Netherlands vsing heerein the D for the T, doe make it Duytch and Duytch-landt. ¶ Berosus, and ¶ Cornelius Tacitus (a man curious in the insearching as well for the originall of the Germans, as the nature and propertie of the people and countrey) doe affirme, that Tuisco, called by Tacitus Tuisto, was the first father and ruler of the Germans or Tuytsch people, which by the same and other Authors are called in Latine Teutones, and their tongue lingua Teutonica, and all of Tuisco or Tuisto. And it is to be noted, that the most ancient Germans being Pagans, hauing appropriated their first day of the weeke to the peculiar adoration of the Sunne, and called it Sunntag, i. Sunday, and the next Montag, i. Monday, and so the third Tuistag, which we call Tuesday, from Tuisco their Captaine, they now call it T. Dinstag. B. Vel vt Verstegan scribit, Woden apud Germanos antiquos & Saxones fuisse quendam bellicosum & fortissimum Principem seu Ducem, cuius effigiem post mortem illius adorabant, sperantes scilicet eius ope & auxilio se posse etiam victoriam consequi, qua potiti illi sacrificabant quos in eo prælio ceperant: & inde ab eius nomine nomen Woden apud eos significat ferocem, furiosum, è qua voce traxerunt etiam Angli suum vocabulum Wood, eiusdem significationis. Hinc frequens apud illos, He taketh on as though he were wood. Sic etiam ab huius nomine habemus denominationem huius diei Wodensday, Wednesday, quem inprimis ei (tanquam Deo Ethnico) dicatum voluerunt. Or, as ¶ Verstegan writeth, that Woden was among the ancient Germans and Saxons a most valiant and victorious Prince and Captaine, and his Idoll or Image was after his death honoured, praied and sacrificed vnto, that by his aid and furtherance they might also obtaine victorie ouer their enemies: which when they had obtained, they sacrificed such prisoners as in that battle they had taken. And from his name this word Woden in their tongue signifieth fierce, furious: as in English when one is in a rage, wee say, that hee is wood, or he taketh on as if hee were wood, so of this name Woden, whom after his death they honoured as a God, came our Wednesday in stead of Wodensday. But this word how diuersly it is vsed, read Linwood tit. de iudicijs, cap. primo verbo, Decani rurales, i. Deanes ruralls, are said to be certaine persons, that haue certaine iurisdiction ecclesiasticall ouer other ministers and parishes nere adioyning, assigned vnto them by the Bishop, and Archdeacon beeing placed and displaced by them. As there be two foundations of cathedrall Churches in England, the olde, and the new. (the new bee these which Henry the 8. vpon suppression of Abbeyes, transformed from Abbot, or Prior, and Couent, to Deane and Chapter, so there bee two meanes of creating these Deanes. For these of the olde foundation are brought to there dignitie much like Bishops: the King first sending out his Congé d'eslire, to the Chapter, the Chapter then chusing, the King yealding his royall assent, and the Bishop confirming him, and giuing his mandate to install him. Those of the new foundation, are by a shorter course installed by vertue of the Kings letters patents, without either election, or confirmation. This word is also applied to divers, that are the chiefe of certaine peculiar churches, or chappells, as the Deane of the Kings chappell, the Deane of the Arches, vj. Arches the Deane of St. George his chappell in Windsour, the Deane of Bockin, in Essex. Deborah the name of a woman, it signifieth in the Hebrew tongue a bee, and fitly the name of a woman which was a Iudge, and gouernour of the people, for the bee is the hieroglyphycke of vigilance, and diligence which in a Prince, or gouernour, is most necessarie, as also of eloquence, as wee see by the bees which made honie in Plato, and Pindarus mouth, as foreshewing their excellent eloquence: such was in Deborah as her learned, and most eloquent song (which shee sung after the conquest of Siserà ¶ Iudg: the 5.) doth sufficiently declare: soe that she was rightly called a bee for those qualities most noted in the bee.

3196 ☞ Dereyne. (Disrationare, vel Dirationare) may seeme to come of the French (Disarroyér, i. confundere, turbare) to confound, or turne out of order, or (Desranger, i. to set out of order) or lastly of the Norman word (Desrene) for with the Normans Desrene is nothing else but a proofe of the deniall of a mans owne fact. For Rubigineus in his grand customarye cap. 122. & 123. maketh mention of (lex probabilis) & (lex deraisnia) legem probabilem, or probationem, hee defineth to bee a proofe of a mans owne fact, which he saith he hath done, and his aduersarie denyeth. his example is this. A. sueth R. for a hog, saying thou shouldst deliuer me a hog for two shillings six pence, which money F. payed thee, wherefore I demaund my hog. R. answereth, It is true that thou saiest, and I deliuered thee thy hog, which I am ready to prooue. Deraisnian hee defineth to bee a proofe of a thing that one denyeth to be done by himselfe, which his aduersary saith was done, defeating or confounding his aduersaries assertion (as you would say) and shewing it to be without, and against reason, or likelyhood, which is auouched. In our common law it is vsed diuersly, first generally for to prooue. as Dirationabit jus suum hæres propinquior. ¶ Glanuile lib: 2. cap: 6. and Habeo probos homines, qui hoc viderunt & audierunt, & paratus sum hoc dirationare. ¶ Idem lib: 4. cap: 6. and (Dirationauit terram illam in curiâ meâ.) ¶ Idem lib: 2. cap: 20. i. he prooued that land to be his owne. &c.
